OPEN HEARING PLANNED ON RIVER PACT

Assembly Committee Also Prepare To Consider Jump In Tax

BULLETIN

SAN FRANCISCO, March 9.—If a man or woman has been married twice and twice divorced, and has had children by one or both marriages, he or she would be obliged to secure permission from a superior court judge before being permitted to marry a third time, according to a law drafted by Superior Judge E. P. Mogan of San Francisco, designed to curb divorce in California, and which will be introduced into the state Legislature by Senator Thomas A. Maloney within the next few days.

The new bill is a companion to Judge Mogan's measure, also introduced into the Legislature by Senator Maloney and recently passed by the state Senate, requiring application for marriage license to be made five days before the ceremony.

SACRAMENTO, March 9.—Assembly committees were today preparing to open public hearings on legislative reapportionment and ratification of the Colorado river compact while the Senate was scheduled to start the week's deliberations with the budget bill and later take up the proposed jump in the gasoline tax.

When the Assembly convened today the first matter on the calendar was the bill recently passed by the Senate, providing for the taxation of solvent credits and various other kinds of intangible securities on an assessment basis of 7 per cent of the full cash value. The measure as amended excludes non-residents from its

CITY COUNCIL ADOPTS VITRIFIED CLAY FOR CITY'S SEWER SYSTEM

Follows Recommendation of Majority of Advisory Committee; Bids Are Lower Than Estimate Made by Engineers

The City Council this morning adopted vitrified clay for sections 4 to 12, inclusive, of the $1,600,000 sewer system now under construction, accepting the following list of low bids, as published Saturday in The Glendale Evening News:

Section 4, John Artukovich, Los Angeles	$ 17,288.00
Section 5, Culjak & Bebek, Los Angeles	26,027.89
Section 6, J. G. Donovan, Los Angeles	5,365.00
Section 7, J. G. Donovan, Los Angeles	15,275.00
Section 8, Culjak & Bebek, Los Angeles	45,407.95
Section 9, J. G. Donovan, Los Angeles	11,500.00
Section 10, J. G. Donovan, Los Angeles	27,350.00
Section 11, Culjak & Bebek, Los Angeles	30,002.86
Section 12, J. G. Donovan, Los Angeles	8,790.00
Total low vitrified	$187,006.70

In accepting these bids, the council concurred in the recommendations of a majority of the Sewer Advisory committee, with reference to all but Sections 7 and 12—the northwest and Palmer avenue sections, respectively—where the committee had recommended the low concrete bids of the same bidder, J. G. Donovan of Los Angeles.

Committee's Action

The Sewer Advisory committee met with the City Council this morning in the committee of the whole, prior to the open meeting, Chairman Herman Nelson presiding. At this meeting they voted to withdraw their recommendation that Section 6 be awarded to the low concrete bidder, in favor of the low vitrified clay bidder. At their meeting on Saturday, the committee had voted to include Section 6 with Sections 7 and 12 in the concrete group.

John A. Logan, one of the members of the Sewer Advisory committee, was for vitrified clay throughout. Herman Nelson, Alexander Mitchell and W. L. Truitt were for concrete on the sections named, believing that inasmuch as these were residential districts, that type would serve just as well, and effect a material saving.

"The idea of the Sewer Advisory committee from first to last was to help the council in selecting the best type of sewer pipe, at the

YOUTH MAY TELL COURT HIS STORY

Harold Willis, Taking Blame For Murder, Is Ready To Swear to Confession

BULLETIN

LOS ANGELES, March 9.—A complaint charging Harold, "Sonny" Willis, 15, with the murder of Dr. Benjamin Baldwin, for which the youth's mother, Mrs. Margaret Willis, was sentenced to serve life, was drawn up in juvenile court today and signed by S. S. Hahn, an attorney who defended Mrs. Willis. The complaint will be filed immediately and young Willis ordered arrested, it was stated.

LOS ANGELES, March 9.—In an attempt to force the authorities' attention to Harold "Sonny" Willis' "confession" that he, and not his mother, Mrs. Margaret Willis, killed Dr. Benjamin B. Baldwin, Attorney S. S. Hahn was ready to produce the 15-year-old boy in the juvenile court today to tell his story under oath.

Mrs. Willis' departure for San Quentin to start serving a life sentence for the Baldwin slaying was delayed a week by the sheriff's office as a result of the boy's last-minute "confession," despite the fact that the district-attorney's office placed no credence in it.

This delay will permit Hahn to sue out a writ of coram nobis, designed to secure a new trial for Mrs. Willis, if he can convince a court that "Sonny" is telling the truth.

TEAPOT DOME CASE OPENS ON LEASE

Government Starts Fight To Secure Annulment Of Naval Oil Pact

By MICHAEL F. DACEY
For International News Service.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., March 9.—Former United States Senator Atlee Pomerene of special oil counsel, today opened the government's case in its efforts to secure annulment of the Teapot Dome naval oil leases.

Senator Pomerene sketched the general outline of the famous case which has brought about cabinet changes and resulted in charges of fraud and bribery on the part of Harry Sinclair and former Secretary of the Interior Fall.

Pomerene said evidence would be presented showing that certain liberty bonds fell into the hands of Fall after a meeting held in New York which was attended by A. E. Humphreys, Colorado and Texas oil operator; Harry M. Blackmer, James E. O'Neil, Harry F. Sinclair and former United States Senator Thomas of Colorado. As a result of this meeting, it was said, the Continental Trading Co., Ltd., of Canada, was organized. This company, Pomerene said, distributed through H. M. Oster, a Canadian attorney, and president of the trading company liberty bonds to the value of $196,000 that within a few weeks found their way into the hands of former Secretary Fall.

Testimony Starts

Pomerene concluded at 11 o'clock and John W. Lacey announced for the defense that it would reserve its opening statement. E. C. Finney, first assistant secretary of the interior department, was immediately called to the witness stand.

Owen J. Roberts questioned Finney at length on his connection with and knowledge of naval oil leases and the organization of the interior department. Numerous exhibits in the form of let-

SEATTLE, March 9.—In the navy's mimic warfare the two rival fleets, the "blue fleet" and the "black fleet," were today rapidly approaching the area where contact was expected in the Pacific off the coast of Lower California in the greatest maneuvering problem of western waters. The Langley aircraft carrier is making highest possible speed up the coast to support the blue cruisers.

PASS BONDS TAX LAW IN ASSEMBLY

Only One Dissenting Vote Is Cast; Measure Sent to Gov. Richardson

SACRAMENTO, March 9.—With only one dissenting vote, the Assembly today passed the West-Breed taxation bill which fixes the valuation base of foreign bonds and all other securities owned in this state, together with all solvent credits at 7 per cent of their market value.

The one member who voted against the measure was Assemblyman Coombs of Napa, who made the fight against the bill before the Senate committee. The bill makes effective the constitutional amendment passed by the people last November.

Offsets Publicity

Assemblyman A. A. Rosenshine, speaking for the measure in the Assembly, stated immediate action was desirable because of injurious publicity that has been given California through false press stories about the California plan of taxing these securities and solvent credits.

The bill now goes to the governor for his signature. If signed, it will become effective in one year.

FISHING PARTY OFF REDONDO IMPERILED BY WAVES

One Hundred 'Prisoners' On Barge Since Sunday, All Deathly Seasick

LOS ANGELES, March 9.—Caught in high seas, 100 men and women, all deathly seasick, were marooned today two miles off Redondo Beach on a fishing barge, where they had been held prisoners by rough water since Sunday afternoon.

All efforts to rescue the party proved fruitless today, but it was said the barge was in no immediate danger.

Several prominent Southern Californians, amateur fishing experts, were reported aboard the marooned barge.

Hundreds of relatives of the sportsmen and their families, who left here Friday on a deep sea fishing jaunt, lined the beach today, watching frantic rescue efforts. Food supplies of the fishing barge were believed low.

The barge was formerly a round-the-world sailing schooner and was reported in no danger of foundering unless the craft dragged its anchor, which would mean disaster, mariners said.

Chief of Police John Henry of Redondo, who was appealed to by relatives of the amateur fishermen, declared members of the party had undergone much suffering. There are only enough blankets on the boat for fifteen persons and sleeping accommodation to care for ten.

Captain W. A. Monstad is in charge of the barge, which was recently rechristened "Leheina."

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

Now that the Chinese herb scandal is becoming a matter of legislative history, the Assembly and Senate considerations will turn to more commonplace subjects.

Two weeks of seething embroglio of the seven week session are sufficient excitement, no doubt, for those who are interested in matters political at Sacramento.

Reapportionment, an issue always, has failed to open up so far. But the fight between the north and the south for prestige is almost open.

The Sacramento Bee takes it upon itself to protect the state university at Berkeley by coloring its columns with the attempts of Los Angeles to make something more than a normal school out of the southern branch, University of California.

Sometimes we wonder if The Bee and Northern Californians would insist upon the thousands of young people from the populous south being forced to spend hard earned dollars traveling back and forth between Los Angeles and the Bay for an education. They might as well pay tuition to the University of Southern California.

And does the critic of the south realize, also, that about half of the Berkeley enrollment comes from south of the Tehachapi? And almost an equal number attend the southern branch.

Another warm contest between the north and south is being waged by Sacramento opposing the Southern California State fair from usurping the glory of the fair held at the capital. The diversity of crops, the distance of 500 miles, and other reasons justifying two fairs make no difference to Sacramento civic boosters. They want the whole show—if they can have it.

Another cause for worry is the announcement that the California Polytechnic Institute at San Luis Obispo is being changed to the California Institute of Agriculture and Home Economics. This appears to the north as an opening wedge to gain an agricultural college in the south which would keep students away from Davis, eventually.

However, the two schools are not comparable. But even should they be so, it would not be unrighteous for the Southland to seek an agricultural school, a state fair, a state university, a state building and reapportionment, because it is the center of wealth, the center of population, and worthy because it would give its rightful share in anything to preserve the history and solidarity of the state.

Can the north say as much in actions that speak louder than words?

REV. CALDERWOOD URGES RELIGION

Need of It to New World Explained by Pastor Of Congregational

"The Need of Religion in a New World" was the subject of the sermon delivered yesterday morning by Rev. Charles M. Calderwood, pastor of the Congregational church. He said:

"We are living in a new world of discoveries, developments, facts and problems. Its new discoveries are interesting, its developments are marvelous, its facts are well authenticated and its problems are complex. In an age of facts men depend on facts. We can clearly explain many things today that were mysteries years ago. People now say that they are not dependent upon God to fill out their lives; they expect the discovery of facts to do it. Why trust in God if by a little study you can work miracles?

"But even if we have all the facts of life we need a spiritual interpretation of those facts. The only largeness of life and real joy come not through the accumulation of materials or through a comprehensive knowledge of facts but rather through the proper use of materials, and the proper interpretation of facts.

Outside Events

"Outside events do not make a man but the proper interpretation does. Two people may have exactly the same set of facts before them and live totally different lives. This is due to the interpretation of the facts. New knowledge alone will not give us a better world. It might give us a worse one. No savages ever fought so bloody and devilish a war as have the white intelligent race.

"It is religion and religion only that will help us to use life's facts for our own well-being and the well-being of the world. Man's greatest need is that of proper interpretation. The religion of Jesus Christ supplies this need. One is baffled before the fact of life's creation, life's purpose, life's duty, life's sorrows, and life's end without religion. Discoveries, developments and facts will not save the world. It is their proper use that will save us. This is why the soul cries out for the living God.

COOLIDGE'S TALK TAKEN AS SERMON

Grand View Community Pastor Tells Benefit of Broadcasting Bible

"God's Broadcasting Stations" was the sermon theme of Rev. George W. Thomas, yesterday morning at the Grand View Community church. He said:

"When the President of the United States takes his oath of office on his own family Bible, opened by his direction at the first chapter of John, bases his inaugural address on the principles and precepts of that Word, and closes with the declaration America's supreme purpose is to merit the favor of Almighty God, it is a day for profound and solemn rejoicing.

"Again in a great and critical hour of destiny there speaks the voice of the God of our fathers through the lips of a God-fearing statesman. President Coolidge spoke with the utter simplicity and good sense of true greatness. As Lincoln did, he spoke 'of the people, by the people and for the people', but more than that he made the steps of the Nation's Capitol the broadcasting station of God. Forth upon the radiant wings of the morning sped the Word which was in the beginning of all things, and which in every generation speaks the beginnings of things that shall be if the people shall hear and answer. 'Behold, the former things are come to pass and new things do I declare, saith the Lord; before they spring forth, I tell you of them. Keep silence before me, and let the people renew their strength: let them come near, then let them speak; let us come together to judgment.'

Millions Audience

"For the first time in history the voice of one man has been heard simultaneously by more than twenty millions of his fellow citizens, and mayhap heard around the world. Yet this is but the beginning of such achievements as man never before heard or saw. And as that message of calmness, righteousness, and peace came to the waiting millions it brought a new sense of the nearness of God. We all drew near to judgment and the strength of our people was renewed, because the voice we heard was indeed 'with God'.

"In this day of the tremendous intensification of evil, God has given man a voice to speak round the world. God gives man great powers when man's motives and understanding can be trusted to use them for the deliverance of the times and peoples. This is but the beginning of the day in which Christ shall speak, 'Peace! Be Still!'

"What a challenge and a lifting for the heart of the church there is in these things! The President has laid the responsibility of spiritual leadership squarely upon the Christian institutions of America. When he says the legions of America go forth are armed not with the sword but with the cross, he means the missionaries of the Church of Jesus Christ. When he says that the higher state to which America seeks the allegiance of all mankind is not of human but of divine origin, he means the Kingdom of God which Christ proclaimed and His church must usher in.

"President Coolidge has given every man, woman, and child in every walk of life courage to go home and go to work, thinking eagerly of tomorrow. But above all others must the church be at her work, with Christ speaking from her steps, and every church board a broadcasting station for the Almighty."

Illustrated Lecture To Feature Church Dinner

Following the church dinner at 6:30 o'clock Wednesday night at First Congregational church, Arthur Terrill, a teacher of mining engineering, for several years in China, will give an illustrated talk on China. Mr. Terrill is a teacher in the Pasadena Polytechnic High school. Reservations for the dinner can be made with Mrs. L. T. Rowley or Mrs. Mary Payne. An exhibit of Oriental souvenirs will be a feature.

Real Estate Problems Have Courts Puzzled

SACRAMENTO, March 9.—No legal means are known by which the activities of male and female solicitors who entice visitors into automobiles owned by real estate firms on the promise of a free ride and then turn them over to a high-power salesman, who frequently sells them property at excessive prices, can be prevented, it is stated in an opinion rendered today by Attorney General U. S. Webb to Edwin T. Keiser, state real estate commissioner.

The activities of these runners for high-power salesmen are particularly pronounced in the southern part of the state, it was said.

Two-And-Half Tons Join Fat Men's Club

BOSTON, March 9.—Two and one-half tons have been added to the membership of the United States Fat Men's club. Twenty-two new members, with a total weight of 5082 pounds, joined the club at a meeting here.

'TESTING OF LIFE' ST. MARK'S THEME

'Temptation' Taken As Text Of Sunday Sermon By Rev. Kemp

Rev. Philip K. Kemp, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church, preached yesterday morning on "Temptation Is the Evidence of the Testing of Life," saying:

"In every kind of life there is a continual testing of the practice of that life in comparison with the ideals espoused. Jesus knew the power of temptation from the earliest days of His ministry. At the close of His life He warned the disciples, 'Watch and pray that ye enter not into temptation.' He knew the dangers of it and felt that they were very real dangers to the spiritual life. He never spoke in the shallow, optimistic terms that the Epistle of James uses: 'Count it all joy when ye fall into divers temptations, knowing that the proving of your faith worketh patience.' Man must ever be on his guard, against the insidious powers which would divert him from duty to inclination.

"We cannot, however, live without being tested, for it is merely the testing of the quality that constitutes temptation. The spiritual nature must be subject to the strain of opposition. Just as the steel in a bridge is put under the strain when there is a load upon it, or when a building must withstand the power of wind and weather in time of storm, so must our life reveal its strength.

Evil Power

"We, as Christian people, have a standard to be preserved against the power of selfishness and passion, which would carry us away from our standard of Christ. To conquer this evil power we must have a heart and will centered in God. Jesus said watch and pray that you fall not under the spell that destroys life. They are subtle in the way they can undermine our life. The life of Jesus shows us that we shall never outgrow the experience of temptation, for He was always subject to it. As St. Luke says, 'When the devil had completed every temptation, he departed from Him till a fit opportunity.'

"We know that there were subsequent temptations, as when the popularity of the crowd presented the temptation to use it for a selfish purpose, for the people wanted to make Him king. Again, on the way to Jerusalem, came the temptation to depart from the way of the cross, and He turned it aside with the scorn that we would have expected.

Great Temptation

"The great temptations that assail our lives are of the three varieties of moral, spiritual and intellectual. Too often we hear more of the moral, while the others, though more subtle, are even more vital, for they undermine our spiritual life. Each temptation must be combatted with a heart and mind given to Jesus Christ.

"He is our standard, and, if we can test each action with this in mind, are we reflecting the true spirit of a true disciple in so doing? Above all, let us watch and pray that we may be true to Him who, in His lifetime, was subject to great trials, yet came through untouched by that which, at the various times of His ministry, would have wrecked the work. It is only by the help and power of God that we can hope for victory in this contest with the evil powers in life."

Italy To Reclaim Old Document On History

ROME, March 9.—Part of Italian history connected with the national Risorgimento, or Wars of Independence, is still wanting in many directions, and it is now hoped that, as a result of an arrangement with the Austrian government, Italy will obtain many valuable documents from Austrian archives.

Senator Salata last October signed a convention at Vienna for the examination of the Austrian archives and has now gone to the Austrian capital to complete his task. The archives of Trent and Trieste will be greatly augmented, and many historical official records connected with territories at one time under Austrian rule, like Lombardy and the Venetian province, will be added to the few already to be found in the Italian state archives.

Housewives Warned To Ask For Bigger Budget

CHICAGO, March 9.—Mother will have to ask for a bigger budget for her table this year.

Dad needn't inquire sarcastically, "Where are all the delicacies?" for it is the cost of butter, potatoes, coffee, eggs, flour, cheese, leg of lamb, and other food necessities of daily life, that has advanced during the past year, announced Mary L. Downes, high chief ranger of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters, in an address here. Forty-four cities reported an advance of from 1 to 3 per cent in the "cost of eating" in 1924, she asserted.

LUTHERANS HEAR LENTEN ADDRESS

Dr. Funk Tells Of Effect Of Bible On Skeptic In Belief

Speaking on the subject of "Christian Conduct," yesterday, in a Lenten address, Dr. Funk, pastor of First Lutheran church, said:

"Louis Harms, one of our greatest missionaries, gives an account of an incident that occurred in a European hotel. A man who had prided himself in being a skeptic came into the hostelry one evening and observed an old book on the table. He opened the Book and began to read an account of the passion of our Lord. The man turned away from the Book with a sneer, and said within himself, 'This hotel is run by one of these religious fanatics who is fool enough to believe in that old Bible.'

"But, somehow, the story of the suffering Savior was still on his mind when he looked up and saw a picture of Jesus with blood oozing from His wounded side, and from His hands and feet, while His head was bowed in death; all of which made a deep impression on him.

Converted

"And as he lowered his eyes they fell on these words at the bottom of the picture: 'This is what I have done for thee, what hast thou done for Me?'

"When the landlord returned his guest said to him: 'I came in here and saw that old Book lying on the table. I tried to sneer it off; but that Book and the picture on the wall have shown me what an awful wretch I am. He suffered and died for me, but I have done nothing but ridicule and make light of Him and His church. I've been an ungrateful wretch, and fell as if I must sink into the depths of hell.'

"The landlord comforted him with words from the old Bible, and pointed him to the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world."

Gibraltar Not Immune Air Postcards Prove

GIBRALTAR, March 9.—The Rock of Gibraltar, the "Key to the Mediterranean," is not so immune from foreign eyes as it was years ago, it would seem from a recent announcement in the official paper of the Rock. The newspaper states that recently photographs of the upper part of the fortifications have been taken by French aeroplanes and placed on sale as picture postcards.

The newspaper points out that the fact that the upper parts of the rock can be photographed with impunity makes the local regulations prohibiting visitors from taking photographs ridiculous.

Woman Mail Carrier Shovels Way To Home

DUNDEE, N. Y., March 9.—Mrs. Mary Clark, the only woman mail carrier in this vicinity, has proven herself to be as intrepid as the mail carrier of the north country during the heavy snows of the last few weeks. Her route takes her from the Dundee postoffice to the Sharkey postoffice, over roads which at this time of year are almost obliterated by snow drifts.

She carries a shovel in the back of her light automobile, and when her car gets stuck she digs it out and travels on. She hasn't missed a day in the delivery of her mail.

'HIDDEN' WEALTH SOUGHT BY TAXES

Prohibitive Rates Will Be Reduced, Equalization Expert Says

SACRAMENTO, March 9.—Taxable wealth amounting to over $5,000,000,000, at present hidden away because of almost confiscatory rates, will be brought into the open and the state's revenues enormously increased if Senate bill No. 37, now pending in the legislature, becomes law, according to M. D. Lack, secretary of the state board of equalization, who has returned from conference with the Southern California legislative delegation and members of the California Taxation Improvement association.

Only $75,000,000 of this "intangible" property is reported for taxation under present laws, said Lack, who explained that the existing rate of taxation on intangible income is now 27 per cent of its return on the average. "This rate scares stocks, bonds and other forms of intangible wealth into hiding. The new law, which will decrease the rate to 3 per cent, will equalize matters and bring this property into the light of day for taxation."

Lack also said that the change in taxation laws will permit thousands of persons who actually live in this state but maintain residence in other states because of the heavy burdens of the intangible tax rate, to legally establish their residence in California.

The proposed new law will put into effect initiative measure No. 9, adopted at the November election.

Municipal Rent Taxes Provide 2,000 Homes

BERLIN, March 9.—With the aid of the revenues accruing from the rent tax the municipal authorities of Berlin have built 2,000 apartments, partly in tenement houses, partly in semi-detached houses, just outside Steglitz, a suburb in the southwest of Berlin.

Further, 3,000 flats are to follow shortly, thus providing accommodation for about 20,000 people. In the western outskirts of this city the building of tenement houses is ceasing and semi-detached houses with tiny gardens are being erected instead.

Since the war the housing conditions in Berlin have become alarming. Berlin, where hundreds of flats were empty before the war, has become thoroughly overpopulated.

THOUSANDS ATTEND OPENING OF AUTO SHOW

CAMPAIGN BY JOHN BROWN IS ENDED

Tabernacle Jammed for Last Sermon; Evangelist To Talk At Monrovia

John E. Brown, evangelist from Arkansas, wound up his month's stay in Glendale Sunday night with a powerful sermon, "The Last Call." Half an hour before the start of the services, 5000 persons jammed the Union tabernacle on North Louise street to the doors and many hundreds had to be turned away. When the evangelist concluded his last "talk" in Glendale, nearly 1000 persons who had listened to him from within the tabernacle and from the street, made a scramble to get into the inquiry room. Four times the big room, with a capacity of 200 persons, was filled to overflowing before all who sought admittance for prayer and consolation were satisfied.

The service brought to a brilliant close the twenty-five days of preaching of John Brown in this city. During that time more than 175,000 persons passed through the big doors of the tabernacle to hear the evangelist and thousands stayed after the regular services were over each night to join in special prayer in the inquiry room.

Evangelist Pleased

John Brown smiled a broad smile of satisfaction as his month's work in Glendale ended. When his secretary told him that estimates placed the number who had heard him at 175,000, he merely said:

"That many people, turning their thoughts to God all in one month, aren't to be sneezed at. Glendale has certainly done herself pround."

The last two days of the John Brown meetings under the auspices of the affiliated churches of the city were marked by the largest crowds of the campaign. Saturday night the evangelist preached on "How to Live a Christian Life." The tabernacle was filled for this service.

NOISY CELEBRATION ON CENTRAL AVENUE

Officials of Improvement Association Estimate 20,000 Persons Attended Big Carnival Saturday Night

By P. M. CONNELLY
Of The Evening News Staff.

Twenty thousand persons joined residents and business men of Central avenue Saturday night in a fitting celebration of the widening and repaving of that thoroughfare and the installation of the new ornamental lighting system. More than half the number witnessed the short speaking program which preceded the actual illumination of the lights and the start of the street carnival that ruled until a late hour.

Officers of the Central Avenue Improvement association, under whose auspices the celebration took place, were delighted with the success of the event. They joined in extending their appreciation to all the people of Glendale who participated in the affair today. Chairman Charles B. Guthrie, in a statement said that the great throng of Glendalians who joined in the observance of the Central avenue opening showed more vividly than words could express the growing Glendale spirit which disregards all sectional boundaries, knowing no north, no south, no east, no west—but just Glendale.

Lights Turned On

Following the speaking program, consisting of short talks by Chairman Guthrie and Mayor Spencer Robinson and the introduction of other members of the City Council, the signal for the lights was given and current was turned into the new system for the first time. As the lights glared forth in the darkness, a great cry went up from the throng that filled the street for several blocks in either direction. Bands blared forth and fireworks proclaimed the event from the sky. A huge bonfire, located in the vacant lot near the corner of Central and Magnolia street was lighted, while the spirit of carnival reigned unrestricted.

In his opening remarks Chairman Guthrie stressed the keynote of the celebration, "No north, no south, no east, no west—it's Central." He spoke of the great forward steps taken by Glendale in recent months in the widening and lighting of the main thoroughfares. He referred to Glendale as destined to become the best lighted city in America.

Mayor Gives Greetings

Following the introduction of Councilmen Harry MacBain, C. E. Kimlin and S. S. Gilhuly, Mayor Robinson extended the greetings of the city and congratulated the property owners of Central avenue on their initiative and loyal civic spirit. Councilman Sam Davis was unable to attend. Other civic leaders who were on the platform during the speaking program were directors of the Chamber of Commerce headed by D. H. Smith, president, and officers of different service clubs and improvement associations.

Once the lights were on and the scrambling of 5,000 urchins who besieged the hot dog stands had

Reports on Celebration At Luncheon

Members of the Central Avenue Improvement association will gather at the Harriett Mae Tea room tomorrow noon to hear reports on the celebration held Saturday night, Charles B. Guthrie, president of the association, has announced. Matters of importance to property owners along Central avenue will be taken up at the luncheon, Mr. Guthrie said.

ALL READY FOR EISTEDDFOD CONTESTS

Committee Chairmen Gather Wednesday for Lunch To Complete Plans

Active work in the Glendale District Eisteddfod, which will culminate in a series of contests the week of April 26 to May 2, will be launched at a luncheon in the Kopper Kettle Wednesday, when members of all committees participating in the movement will meet.

In preliminary activities, the various committees have worked separately preparing the rules and contest material for more than fifty contests in musical, artistic and dramatic lines, all of which will be incorporated into a district booklet, now in the hands of the printer. The booklet, which will be ready late next week, will be distributed free of charge to interested persons expecting to participate.

A. L. Baird, chairman of the organization here, announced yesterday that every effort has been made to arrange contests in the classifications which will appeal to the largest number of people in the district. There will be individual opportunity in piano, voice, violin, photography, painting of many kinds, dancing and other branches and group contests in choruses, choirs, orchestras, dancing, dramatics and similar lines.

Schools May Enter

Special arrangements have also been made whereby elementary and grade schools may enter glee club, folk dancing and art contests, school officials in surrounding cities being expected to follow the example of Glendale executives in giving their students permission to participate.

Following the distribution of the booklets, ample time will be given prospective contestants before entry blanks must be filed, the closing date being fixed as April 11. Between April 11 and April 16, the latter being the opening day of Contest week, the time and the place of the contests will be named.

The Eisteddfod, a revival of an old and well-loved custom in Wales, is a general movement throughout Southern California, contests being arranged in a dozen different districts, one of which is the Glendale District. All surrounding cities are included in the Glendale District. The movement is being sponsored by Glendale Community Service.

EDITORIAL

THE AUTO SHOW

Glendale's first automobile show, which opened Saturday night, is already an assured success, but the Glendale Evening News asks for this enterprise the continued support and attendance of the people of Glendale.

A half hundred or less of Glendale men are responsible for the show, a very small per cent of our 55,000 population. These men, though few in number, are big enough to know that this effort to advance the cause of motordom as a whole will have a broader appeal and better results than if each one of them spent the same amount of time and money in advertising and pushing his own particular business.

And because these automobile dealers are not narrow-minded they are giving Glendale the choicest kind of publicity, for the exhibit has been advertised by every means, including a radio program of fine music broadcast from a Los Angeles station. It is now our business as a city to see that this publicity reacts upon those who created it.

Since these few men are demonstrating their energy and aggressiveness, the balance of us ought to give them every encouragement in the way of frequent attendance at the splendid and complete exhibit of automobiles and accessories and the musical revue and vaudeville program featured at the big tent every night, especially as the price of admission is too small to deter any of us.

This motor show is especially deserving of our support because the dealers of Glendale are able to make the exhibit complete from their own stocks, without going out of town. There, on display from Glendale showrooms, are the latest cars of all the leading makes and the last word in accessories. Glendale people who are in the market for automobiles or accessories should feel in duty bound to purchase from our own progressive dealers.

Honks Along Gasoline Row

D. E. Dennis, sales manager for the Glendale Motor Car Co., Inc., was in business a few months ago in Richmond, Ind. He sold out, bought a round-trip ticket, bade his family good-bye and left for Southern California for his first vacation in years. He still has the return half of his ticket to Richmond. But—last week he purchased a home here; he is selling Maxwell and Chrysler cars and as soon as school is out back east, Mrs. Dennis and their three children are coming to Glendale.

"I stopped first at Pasadena," said Dennis. "Over there they told me that Glendale was the best city and had the greatest opportunities in Southern California. Coming from a rival city, I was interested, naturally, and I came over for a visit. Here a banker told me, after I had queried him, that Lyman P. Clark was the best automobile man in Glendale. I met Clark that same day, went to dinner with him, and the next morning I was selling automobiles in his organization. And here I am." Dennis is in charge of the booth at the show.

One of the biggest attractions under the canvas at South Brand boulevard and Magnolia avenue is a specal Dodge Brothers chassis, with housings cut away at every moving part, so that the actual "innards" of the whole machine can be seen in operation. The bearings are visible, the radiator is cut, a portion of the battery case is removed; action of the brakes can be watched. The whole, a nickel-plated masterpiece of machinery, is mounted to permit the rear wheels to turn slowly. The chassis is being shown as the feature of R. E. Corrigan's exhibit.

A set of four 32x6.20 India balloon cord tires, taken off a Packard sedan owned by George W. Anderson, 214½ West Broadway, that have been run 31,903 miles, are being exhibited by Fred Kinsley at the auto show. The tread is not broken. On the top the tires are worn smooth, but that is all. At the close of the show, the tires are going back on the same car. Kinsley is distributor for India tires in Glendale.

A modern Kehawke machine, which, in the parlance of the layman, means a machine to hold big tire casings in place while old sections are being cut out and new sections inserted, is an interesting part of the exhibit of William H. Hooper & Co. Vulcanizers and retreading moulds, with a tire cast in a number of different moulds, are also being shown and explained by W. L. Criplan, in charge of the booth.

The inner mechanism of four-wheel brakes in operation is shown on a Studebaker chassis exhibited at the show by the Packer Motor Co., Inc. A number of late models and closed car bodies are also being shown in a location directly under the center of the big 310-foot tent.

An interesting exhibit, showing a model of the discovery well in California oil history is attracting much attention at the Standard Oil Co. booth, in charge of C. L. Hamilton and Don Scott. Most pioneers say that oil was first discovered in California in 1865. In that year a Mexican hunter, while following the trail of a deer in Pico canyon, near Saugus, came upon a seepage of sticky, black fluid. He carried it to the mission settlement at San Fernando, where it was identied as petroleum. Claims were staked out, and production started in 1870, at the head of the canyon, by the old spring-hole method. Twenty-four years ago this original well was taken over by the Standard Oil Co., and it is still producing. Miniature models of the well and famous Pico canyon are displayed at the show.

Two big Buick closed cars and a chassis stripped to show plainly all the working parts and the action of the four-wheel brakes are being exhibited by Tanner & Hall under the main portion of the big tent.

An old 1906 model Maxwell "runabout" that has gone more than 263,000 miles is a part of the Maxwell-Chrysler exhibit at the auto show. The machine, all dolled up in fresh paint and new tires, was run to the show tent under its own power. The car is good for many more miles, according to Lyman P. Clark, president of the Glendale Motor Car Co., Maxwell distributors. Beside the new, heavy models of automobiles that are grouped around it, the old machine is in strange company.

VISITORS MARVEL AT DISPLAY OF DEALERS

Mayor Robinson Officially Dedicates Exposition Staged In Huge Tent At Magnolia and Brand

By H. THOMPSON RICH
Of The Evening News Staff.

Over 3000 people attended the opening of Glendale's first annual automobile show Saturday night, reports P. A. Kelley, chairman of the show committee of the Glendale Motor Car Dealers' association, under whose auspices this big carnival of cars and accessories is being staged daily and nightly until March 14 at the northwest corner of Brand boulevard and Magnolia avenue. Thousands more visited the show last night. Today further record crowds are expected to witness this $200,000 exposition.

There were thirty-three exhibitors, including latest models of practically all leading makes of cars. Many booths contained six or more models. The show is being held under a huge tent, 100 by 310 feet, and capable of accommodating 5000 people nightly. There are on display 1000 running feet of exhibits, covering 30,000 square feet of floor space.

The tent, carrying out a color scheme in orange and blue, is brilliantly illuminated by thirty-two 750-watt electric globes, suspended from seven-foot chandeliers, and 3000 fifty-watt globes located up and down the long lines of exhibits. The entire floor space is boarded, and the space under each car is burlapped. The sides of the booths are framed in decorated partitions. The three main aisles afford ample traffic flow for the streams of spectators.

Dedicated By Mayor

At the west end of the tent is a 22x40-foot stake, and there at 8 o'clock Saturday night Mayor Spencer Robinson officially opened the show. He was introduced by Lyman P. Clark, president of the Glendale Motor Car Dealers' association, who made it clear that the members of the body he heads are putting on the show, not to make money, but to demonstrate to the public that there is in Glendale a strong organization of car dealers, carrying practically every standard make of car, prepared not only to deliver these cars in any desired body type, but to deliver as well, maximum service at minimum expense.

Replying to Mr. Clark, Mayor Robinson told the people the show was open, it was theirs, it was big, it was splendid, another expression of the wide-awake spirit shown by Glendale merchants.

Urges Home Trade

"This show is just another way of telling you people to trade at home," the mayor said. "It is one of the finest things ever staged in the city. All the leading cars are here, all the dealers stand back of their cars, and the city of Glendale stands back of its automobile dealers. We are proud of this industry. Nothing has done more to push Glendale ahead, create prosperity and provide a payroll, the biggest payroll in the city."

P. A. Kelley, chairman of the show committee, then spoke briefly, further outlining the aims of the Glendale Motor Car Dealers' association in staging their first annual Automobile show, and expressing the faith that it would be so liberally patronized by the public as to grow into one of the outstanding events of each succeeding year.

Musical Revue

A musical revue of exceptional merit was staged under the direction of Millie Marlowe. Under the title, "Sunshine of Virginia," Hazel Boyd and Willis West were featured in three ensemble numbers, two vocal selections, violin solos, a jazz dancing number and a final brilliant ensemble of Russian dancers.

Sunday night Millie Marlowe presented Hazel Boyd and Willis West in a novelty revue, "March of the Wooden Soldiers." Tonight the revue will offer "A Breath of Old Spain." The entertainment program is put on each night at 9 o'clock, Mr. Kelley states. The show is open each afternoon from 1:30 to 4:30 o'clock and each night from 6 until 10:30 o'clock.

WOMEN INSPECT NEW MODELS IN EXHIBITS

Feminine Hearts Thrilled as Latest Styles In Automobiles Displayed On Opening Night of Show

By KATHERINE V. SINKS
Of The Evening News Staff.

The further this old world speeds on from horse and buggy days, the bigger the thrill for the feminine heart in that modern institution, the automobile show.

There are forty kinds of four-wheeled reasons, and countless accessory excuses artistically arranged from the man's viewpoint, at the first annual automobile show of Glendale Motor Car Dealers' association, to prove that America's motor industry and motoring public must include milady in plans and attractions.

Automobiles and automobile shows may be inventions of the male mind, but it has taken feminine enthusiasm to put them both over. She may not know what's under the hood, nor if it be a powerful motor car or lowly flivver; and she may know all the intricate mechanical traits and know at a glance if it be patrician or plebeian in make, it matters not, her entree to the motor world is an accepted fact.

Many Women Attend

Glendale women were not at all in the minority Saturday night for the grand opening in the big show tent on South Brand boulevard. Thronging into the show were maids and matrons and not all of them accompanying brother or dad or sweetheart "just to be agreeable" either. Of course, all Glendale turned out for the opening event and will revisit the show many times during the week, for aside from the affair being an event of civic life and accomplishment meriting pride of the whole city, it is a medley of educational exhibits, each one most worthwhile.

The last words in car models are being shown by various dealers and new accessories can be found on every hand. All are intensely fascinating to the feminine mind. The woman who drives her own car has opportunity to see the latest model and finds ample opportunity for comparing it with others. The woman who does not drive, but loves to motor finds delight in them all, and may learn something about automobiles before she knows it.

Decorative Scheme

The futuristic decorative scheme of black and white above the exhibits is most striking, while the green floor coverings beneath the exhibit offers added charm.

Motor Car Dealers' association of Glendale are successfully convincing Glendale women that the mode's most recent decree in a motor way can be found in Glendale and that Glendale dealers are constantly on the alert to what their patrons may demand.

The old-fashioned horse and buggy stands by the hitching post of the ages, while milady seated comfortably at the wheel or in the tonneau of a high powered Twentieth Century model speeds on her way.

Miss Moir Operated On For Appendicitis

Helen Louise Moir, daughter of Mrs. Helen S. Moir of 614 North Kenwood street, a patient at Glendale Research hospital, where she underwent an operation for appendicitis yesterday, was reported improving today.

AUTO VS. HEALTH

SACRAMENTO, March 9.—Discussing the report which shows that more than a thousand deaths were caused by automobiles in California during 1924, Dr. Walter M. Dickie, secretary of the state board health, questions whether the automobile has not become a public health problem in this respect.

PORT PROBLEM

With 60,000 tons of merchandise arriving by ship each week, and the railroads able to haul away only 40,000 tons in that time, Sao Paulo, Brazil, has the worst transportation problem in its history.

Gas Heaters Are Installed At Auto Show

Gas heaters today are being installed the full length of the automobile show tent, and tonight in comfort the thousands who are expected to visit the first annual event of its kind in Glendale will be entertained with ten special vaudeville acts, "A Breath of Old Spain." Spanish atmosphere, Spanish costumes, dances and songs will be featured.

The Greatest Asset of Glendale

We realize the value of our wonderful climate and the accumulation of wealth in the nearness to our great neighbors, but after all the thing that gives wealth to Glendale is that it is a desirable place in which to live. Our preachers, our teachers and schools, our lawyers and, above all, our doctors and our dentists give a security to human health and happiness that could not possibly exist without them.

And Glendale is second to no city in facilities, both men and institutions, for the proper defense of health. We take greater pride in nothing than our practical professional cooperation with our doctors. We are proud of their confidence.

Daily Greeting to News Readers

IF EVERY YEAR—
We broke one bad habit we would soon be masters of life.
We became familiar with some one art we would soon be masters of beauty.
We perfected one new economy we would soon be on the road to plenty.
We set our stakes ahead, growth will be an inevitable result.
We could increase the spirit of good will we would lessen the chance of war.
We inspired one boy to go to college the world would soon have leadership.
We cast out one old prejudice we would soon be enjoying life.

ABOLISH SHORT SESSION

As Congress adjourns again we hear the usual criticisms of the accomplishments of that body and the general agreement that the short session contributes nothing to the smooth running of the machinery of government—rather the reverse. The session is too short for the members to finish what they started, and for the same reason many needful things are not started. The Congress which has just adjourned left the air defense situation as well as the farm-aid question up in the air. If a special session is called to complete matters taken up in the short session it is largely composed of different men and so the deliberations of the first body have been very largely wasted.

Another objection is that the short session is composed of members of both houses who have been defeated at the November election or who have not been candidates for re-election, and so the control of Congress may be in the hands of the party beaten at the polls. It is absurd that a party defeated by the people should continue to legislate and govern for four months longer while the newly elected members of Congress sit by and twirl their thumbs.

The proposal that the short session be abolished, that the terms of Congressmen begin January 1, and that the President and Vice President be inaugurated at that time, has everything in its favor and nothing against it but precedent.

GARDEN WEEK

The week of April 27 has been set aside by the National Federation of Woman's clubs as National Garden Week. While the date is a little late for us here in Southern California to plant our gardens, still any time is planting time with us, and there is every reason for us to cooperate with people in other parts of the country where spring comes later than it does here.

In co-operation with this movement, the American Tree association of Washington is urging everyone to help celebrate the centennial of Arbor Day in 1972 by planting trees now, and is undertaking a campaign to enlist thousands of new members in its tree-planting army. The movement is worthy of commendation and every one in Southern California should be a member of this tree-planting army.

It will take years to replenish the hills and mountains with vegetation which have been burned over in the last few years, and the trees are badly needed here to conserve moisture and prevent erosion. Trees in Southern California are not only an esthetic but a practical necessity.

In addition to planting trees we should give our support to all measures and movements for the conservation of our forests. Legislation being considered at Sacramento to this end should have our encouragement.

PUSH AND PATRONAGE

A business man who called attention to his rapidly-growing business was asked how he accounts for the increase. He pointed to his remodeled and redecorated store, his improvements in service, his increased facilities for buying to advantage, and other popular drawing cards. He says he provides the public with the best in his lines and he has educated the local buyers to the truth that what he has to sell is first-class. People who want the best have no reason to pass this man's store, and they do not pass it. They go in and they purchase, as his books will show. The merchant who gives the public an excuse for not patronizing him, by carrying inferior stocks or employing out-of-date methods, cannot consistently complain if he does not get the trade.

GOES OUT OF SHIPPING BUSINESS

Australia has tried government ownership and found it wanting. She went into the shipping business during the war, as an emergency measure, and has found it so expensive that she is advertising for sale her thirty-one ships of the Commonwealth line. The London Times, commenting on this incident, says, "no government can compete with private lines," and "government shipping services are as a rule an extravagance no country can afford."

The United States made a costly experiment in government ownership of railroads during the war and long since saw her mistake and turned the roads back to private interests. Waste and inefficiency usually are factors in a government-controlled industry.

FIGHTS FOR OPIUM TRAFFIC

Lord Cecil, whose peace plan recently won the Woodrow Wilson prize of $25,000, is no pacifist where the opium traffic is concerned, according to his attitude at the opium conference. He is a hard fighter and in a bad cause, for he does not favor the discontinuance of the opium traffic. Lord Cecil talked very prettily when he was in this country collecting his prize money, but slandered us dreadfully at the conference. Ford's Dearborn Independent says, "What I find it hard to understand is this: that Americans are so badly misinformed as to the foreigners they honor. There should be a line against handing out Woodrow Wilson prize money to men who have it in them to slander the people of America."

LISTENING IN ON CONGRESS

Some one makes the suggestion that since the President's inaugural address was broadcast from Washington to all parts of the United States the debates and proceedings of Congress might be heard in the same manner by the people of the country, and that such an innovation might have a salutary and chastening effect upon the members. The radio is like the camera—it doesn't lie. Truthfulness is a virtue which has not often been attributed to the Congressional Record, and if Congressmen thought their constituents were listening in to their debates, instead of reading them in the Record, some beneficial reforms might be brought about. On the other hand, it is to be feared that the people would soon tire of this kind of entertainment, if it could be called entertainment.

THE TENDERFOOT

The Pretty Woman

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Every woman wants to be pretty.

The country over is starred with beauty parlors where women are trying to make themselves over and improve their appearance.

All men like pretty women, yet somehow pretty women have not much of the right kind of influence in the world.

Perhaps it is because beauty is a gift. And anyone who has a gift has something that does not promote character, but interferes with it.

I have often noticed that a boy who plays the violin well, or the mouth harp, or dances well, or can do any other kind of trick well, is apt to be an unbalanced character.

The same is true of a boy who inherits a lot of money. He is subject to temptations that the ordinary boy does not meet. It is a rare thing for him to overcome them sufficiently to become a successful man.

The truth is that the man who has the best chance to succeed, if by success is meant all 'round achievement and contentment, is the man of an average character, the man who is endowed with no especial gifts.

The Bible tells us that it is as hard for the rich man to get into the Kingdom of Heaven as for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle. It is hard for any man who is in any way especially endowed to be the right kind of a person. It can be done, but it is rare.

There seems to be something in the possession of unusual qualities that unbalances a man's character. If I had a child and wanted him to be happy, I should pray that he would not do anything well enough to be marked out above his fellows.

It is a queer thing that in this life happiness seems to run along in the rut where the common people live. It is a privilege of the common and not the uncommon folk.

I recently saw a play called "The Valley of Content," which illustrated that there is much more content in being poor and struggling with the ordinary obstacles of life than there is in being rich and having no obstacles.

There are some people who cannot see the greatness of Abraham Lincoln. He was not a great speaker; he was not an artist; he was not a musician; he was not good looking. He was not extraordinarily endowed in any one particular way, but was great in his balance of character. He was great in the sense that the common people are great. This made him the idol of the masses and the more his true character comes out the more he is esteemed by the common people.

Those great women who have most influenced the world, either by their works or through some man, as a rule have not been pretty women. The pretty woman's gifts seem to lie mostly in the direction of destructiveness. It is rare to find a woman of handsome mien who is handsome also in her thoughts and spirit.

But if women have the right thoughts and feelings and principles in time they impress themselves upon the appearance and they grow more beautiful as they grow old.

They do not excel in the beauty of youth, but excel rather in that beauty which comes with the accretion of years.

Horoscope

Venus in changeable mood dominates this day, according to astrologers, who find the aspects especially strong for women.

During the business hours on this date it is well to be most conservative, especially in theatrical affairs, or in lines of merchanmaking special appeal to persons who can afford luxuries.

Professional women should delay any important activities, for they will find that dealings with men will be disappointing.

This is not a lucky day for love affairs since it is probable that they who should be wooed will be inclined to take the initiative.

Weddings are not well directed, for they may bring to the husband the necessity of deferring always to the wife.

Strangely aspected are the fortunes of the theatre and all places af amusement, for they are to go through a period of development that will be fortunate in the end, but costly in the time of transition.

Mition pictures are to become an even greater factor in the world of amusement than ever before, it is prophesied, but many methods of production will improve.

There is a sign presaging marvelous inventions of all sorts and from several of these motion pictures will benefit greatly.

The Moon today is in Virgo, a sign that makes for restlessness and is supposed to rule courtship and marriage.

Divorces are to multiply wonderfully and a country near to the United States is to become a new Mecca for those who desire to dissolve the marriage contract.

Diseases of the digestion may be prevalent while this configuration prevails.

Australia is to suffer from the sinister power of Neptune and may become involved in tangled foreign affairs.

Persons whose birthdate it is should be unusually circumspect in the coming year, which may easily bring scandals. Love affairs may be troublesome.

Children born on this day will probably be clever and intensely self-willed. These subjects of Pisces are usually very successful in financial matters, but less fortunate in love.

Today's Poem

Morality

We cannot kindle when we will
The fire which in the heart resides;
The spirit bloweth and is still,
In mystery our soul abides.
But tasks in hours of insight will'd
Can be through hours of gloom fulfill'd.

With aching hands and bleeding feet
We dig and heap, lay stone on stone;
We bear the burden and the heat
Of the long day and wish 'twere done.
Not till the hours of light return
All we have built do we discern.

—Mathew Arnold.

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNARD

CLARK KINNAIRD

The retiring senator from Kentucky, Mr. Stanley, lately has been having some virile things to say about the "law-making mania" prevalent in the United States.

"No matter what the trouble, no matter what the disease, no matter what the complaint, no matter what the existing law, people rush to Congress, to some committee, have a bill framed while you wait, report it to the Senate, have the title read, have it enacted into law, and go back to sleep without regard to the rights of the citizen or the dignity of legislation.

"The main trouble in the United States is not that we have not enough law, but that we have not enough respect for the law we have.

"The law once was obeyed because it was respected, and it was respected because it was respectable.

"Today the thing that menaces us more than all the armies and navies of a hostile world, that menaces us more than all threatened internecine strife, is the universal disregard and contempt for law."

It has been said many times by the wisest of men that the less government the better—the fewer laws and the less confided government.

Law never made men a whit just; and, by means of their respect for it, even the well-disposed are daily made the agents of injustice to it.

"This American government, what is it but a tradition, though a recent one, endeavoring to transmit itself unimpaired to posterity, but each instant losing some of its integrity?" Thoreau asked, long years ago. "It has not the vitality of a single living man; for a single man can bend it to his will.

"It is a sort of wooden gun to the people themselves.

"But it is not the less necessary for this; for the people must have some complicated machinery or other, and hear its din, to satisfy that idea of government which they have."

Government is an expedient by which men would fain succeed in letting one another alone; and, as has been said, when it is most expedient, the governed are most let alone by it.

Auckland Museum Gets Aged Greenstone Axe

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, March 9.—A Maori greenstone adze, or ancient type of axe, said to be the largest yet found, has been brought to the Auckland museum from the Waikato district.

The adze is believed to have been made for ceremonial use, as it is very artistically carved and is thought to represent Maori art at its best. It is twenty-seven inches long, five inches wide and weighs about sixteen pounds.

'Jack the Hugger' Busy Flirting In Delaware

WILMINGTON, Del., March 9.—This town needs a good "Sherlock Holmes," according to several prominent citizens. For more than two weeks a "Jack the Hugger" has annoyed dozens of women just at dusk. Several suspects have been arrested, but all of them were released, after convincing the authorities of their innocence.

Of the 1400 exhibitors expected at the Bordeaux fair this year, about twenty are American firms.

Two Hundred Convicts Build Own Golf Links

SACRAMENTO, March 9.—Following the example of their free fellowmen, the 200 convicts employed at the Briceburg road camp engaged in building a state highway into the Yosemite valley, have completed an excellent nine-hole golf course, according to M. J. Small of the state highway commission. The club is said to be the first of its kind with a membership composed of prisoners serving their sentences.

AIR CARNIVAL PLANS GIVEN IMPETUS

Promoters Working to Make Week-End Meet Biggest City Attraction

Plans for Glendale's two-day aviation meet to be staged next Saturday and Sunday and the annual business men's aviation banquet Saturday night developed rapidly today, assuring that the event will be the largest and most spectacular ever attempted in Southern California. Double postcard invitations to nearly 100 local business men to attend the banquet and assist in the formation of the proposed Southern California Aeronautical association were sent today from the Chamber of Commerce. The cards are signed by D. H. Smith and W. E. Hewitt and each has a return stamped portion for an answer.

Professor A. A. Merril, leading glider expert of America, and head of the aeronautical research department of the California Institute of Technology, held a conference with Secretary Howard I. Wood of the chamber this morning and agreed to be one of the speakers at the banquet on Saturday night. He will show a short moving picture, demonstrating his latest glider experiments. Donald Douglas, airplane manufacturer, will be the main speaker at this banquet.

Young Boosting

Dr. T. C. Young, chairman of the general committee for the air meet, addressed 200 reserve officers of the United States army Saturday night at Ross field, Arcadia, inviting them to take part in the meet. Lieut. C. P. Kane, commander at Ross field, assured Dr. Young that reserve officers would back the move for an air association. Secretary Wood received a telephone communication from Lieut. Kane this morning, announcing that Col. Frank Lahn, chief of aeronautics in the Ninth corps area, will in all probability be able to attend the Glendale meet. Secretary Wood also announced that A. L. Markwell, Los Angeles aviator of note, has entered his eight-passenger twin motor cabin ship, "Skylark," in the meet.

Letters from Santa Ana, Torrance and Inglewood Chambers of Commerce were also received today announcing that these cities will join in the air meet. Santa Ana is just establishing a forty-acre flying field. A large field will soon be established at Torrance, the letter from that city stated, as a result of the movement initiated in Glendale to have an airport in every city.

HARBOR WORK

WASHINGTON, March 9.—More liberal federal aid for the Sacramento river flood control work, which has been under way for many years, was forecast as a possibility of the future, following consideration by the board of engineers for rivers and harbors of the report of Major U. S. Grant.

DEAD ELEPHANT

SAN FRANCISCO, March 9.—San Francisco has an elephant on its hands—not a white one, but a dead one. It floated in through Golden Gate and found a landing place on the beach.

DEATHS-FUNERALS

CHARLES A. BAXTER

Charles A. Baxter died at his home, 632 East Harvard street, Monday, March 9, 1925, aged 81 years. The deceased leaves a daughter, Mrs. May Dickman, who resides at the same address, also two granddaughters, Mrs. Clarence C. Severson, 632½ East Harvard street, and Mrs. W. L. Johnson of Windom, Minn. The deceased had been a resident of Glendale for fourteen years, building the house in which he lived until the time of his death when he first came to this city. He was a member of Unity Lodge No. 27, Masons, of Windom, Minn. Funeral services will take place from the parlors of the Jewel City Undertaking Co., on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, Rev. W. E. Edmonds officiating. Interment will be in Forest Lawn Memorial Park.

JOHN F. GRADY

Funeral services for John F. Grady, who died March 2, 1925, will be held from the Jewel City Undertaking parlors Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. W. E. Edmonds in charge. Interment will be at San Gabriel cemetery.

AARON LAMONT

Funeral services for Aaron Lamont will be held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the Little Church of the Flowers, Forest Lawn Memorial park. Kiefer & Eyerick, directors.

MRS. LOUISE J. RODMAN

The remains of Mrs. Louise J. Rodman, who died March 3 1925, will be shipped to Bloomington, Ill., for interment, tomorrow. The Jewel City Undertaking Co. will be in charge.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Hobson of 414 North Avenue Fifty, Los Angeles, are the parents of a son, born Sunday, March 8, 1925, at Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital.

Shows Life

Scene from "CHEAP KISSES," the picture at the Glendale theatre today and tomorrow.

Cullen Landis and Lillian Rich, seen in the leading roles of "Cheap Kisses," which opened last night at the Glendale theatre for a three-day run, are at their best. The story tells how two hypocritical jazz-age parents disown their son because he marries a chorus girl. Later they are only too happy to cultivate the beautiful bride whose portrait is painted by a world-famous artist.

"Cheap Kisses" is the first picture actually produced by C. Gardner Sullivan, famous writer of many film hits. John Ince directed. He is a brother of Thomas H. Ince, recently deceased, and of Ralph Ince, another well-known director.

The story deals with petting-parties, hip-flasks, roadhouse scandals, divorces and all the attendant evils of jazz. It is a picture calculated not only to entertain but to make the audience sit up and take notice.

MERCHANTS MAKE AIR MEET PLANS

Coker & Taylor To Drop One Of Modern Ranges From Plane In Flight

News dispatches assert that recent sham battles on the Atlantic coast, staged between the naval and aviation departments have resulted in each instance in decisive victory for the aviation department. To show the accuracy with which direct hits can be made from an airplane, Coker & Taylor, 209 South Brand boulevard, have arranged with Dr. T. C. Young, chairman of the aviation meet to be held here March 14-15, to stage a novel demonstration at 11 a. m. on Saturday, March 14.

In accordance with the plan now arranged, Dr. Young will ascend to an altitude of 2000 feet directly over Brand boulevard and at some strategic point will drop one of Coker & Taylor's famous 316 X Direct Action Gas ranges squarely into some fortunate housewife's kitchen.

Contest Rules

Certainly not, Annabelle, don't worry, it won't ruin the roof and the stove will land in perfect condition. Here's how—three miniature parachutes will be simultaneously released from the plane, each will carry an order on Coker & Taylor, the first will be an order for a range equipped with the famous Lorain oven heat regulator, and the second and third will carry orders for the Time and Temperature Cook book.

In order to enhance everyone's chance, and to further protect lawns and back yards, two or three simple rules have been laid down by the committee. It is to be understood that, provided the parachute with the lucky order lands on a house, in a tree or, in fact, on any part of a residence lot, it at once becomes the property of the inhabitants. On the other hand, if it lands on a vacant lot, in the street or in any open places, it is to belong to whoever gets it. The same rules apply to the securing of each of the parachutes.

ARGENTINE DOCTORS

Doctors of Argentina prescribe proprietary medicines to a greater extent than those of this country, and nearly $3,000,000 worth of concoctions a year is received from other countries.

Judge Harry W. Chase Acts In Police Court

Judge Harry W. Chase of the Burbank township justice court presided over the Glendale police court this morning in place of Judge Frank H. Lowe, who remained at the bedside of Mrs. Lowe, whose condition is critical, as the result of pneumonia.

The heaviest fine assessed by Judge Chase was $250, in the case of H. Thorogood of Burbank, arrested last night in Glendale on a reckless driving charge. Thorogood paid his fine and was released.

INDEX TO CO-OPERATIVE DEPARTMENT

PAGE 6 OF THIS ISSUE OF THE EVENING NEWS

Of course when you want to buy merchandise of any kind you are anxious to patronize a Glendale dealer. When you wish to employ professional skill it is your desire to secure a local man. When repair work is needed it is to your advantage to have the work done by mechanics near home.

The object of this index column is to refer you to the CO-OPERATIVE DEPARTMENT on Page 6 of this issue, where you will find listed a large number of merchants, tradesmen and professional men who are real boosters for Glendale. While the Community Loyalty Section will appear in The Evening News one day every week, yet readers are advised to cut it out and hold it for reference for the purpose of ascertaining names and locations of business firms in Glendale.

Trading at Home Exemplifies the Boosting Spirt

Those of us whose hearts and homes are in Glendale keep our dollars here, too. We are very much inclined to suspect the loyalty of those who go out of town to trade, since "where your treasure is there will your heart be also." The necessity of keeping Glendale money in Glendale should need no argument. If you are a real community booster you are doing these things:

Buying everything you eat and wear and use in Glendale.

Hiring no labor but Glendale labor.

Employing no service but that performed by Glendale concerns.

Discouraging every agency whose purpose is to draw dollars away from Glendale.

The inducements held out to you by other trading centers is bait to pull your dollars away from your home town. These other communities have no other interest in you. The glad hand will be extended to you just as long as your money holds out, but no longer. Other and large communities have no interest in us whatever except as they can extract our dollars from our pockets. But when we spend our money in Glendale we are helping ourselves and working for our own interests—FOR WE ARE GLENDALE.

You may think the merchants of Glendale are as coldly calculating in asking for your trade as those of outside communities—BUT THE GLENDALE MERCHANTS HAVE TO WORK FOR GLENDALE. If they wish to succeed themselves they have to help Glendale, as a community, to succeed.

The merchants and the citizens of any community must co-operate because their interests are mutual. Buying at home is only true exemplification of the boosting spirit.

Jacobs was haled into court and released on $50 bail when he failed to give a satisfactory explanation of the trousers' whereabouts. Trial was set for March 11.

BURBANK NEWS

BURBANK, March 9.—Recommendations for several new buildings, involving expenditure of a large sum of money, were presented to the Board of Education, at their last meeting, by the Advisory committee of citizens. These recommendations were received by the board with satisfaction and have met with their approval, it is learned.

The recommendations, according to Superintendent L. F. Collins of Burbank city schools, include three new buildings of four classrooms each, to be located in Magnolia park, West Burbank and South Burbank. Additions to buildings now standing, as recommended by the advisory committee, are four rooms for the Joaquin Miller school and three or five rooms for the Abraham Lincoln school, this depending upon the extent to which the new buildings in Magnolia park and South Burbank, will draw from the Lincoln district.

PLENTY OF RAIN

SAN FRANCISCO, March 9.—California will be free from a power shortage this summer. A special report to the State Railroad commission today by A. V. Guillou, the commission's gas and electric engineer, declared that sufficient rain has fallen in Northern California to assure full reservoirs for the power companies. In Southern California completion of a steam plant at Long Beach and cutting through of the Florence tunnel will assure plenty of power for that section.

LANKERSHIM

LANKERSHIM, March 9.—So serious has become the problem of traffic congestion at the intersection of Cahuenga pass and Mulholland drive that a petition has been presented to the Los Angeles City Council by the Greater San Fernando Valley Improvement association, asking that $250,000 be appropriated to carry the skyline drive across the pass by viaduct.

A conference between Dwight L. Reaburn, chief engineer of the Los Angeles Traffic commission; H. A. Van Norman, city engineer; and secretary Carl Bush of the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce, has been held to discuss the proposed roads and bridges over Cahuenga pass. A decision in regard to the roads and bridges which are to cross the new pass highway will be necessary before steam shovels now at work on the new right hand way can be permitted to continue.

Again Sunday the pass highway was congested with traffic. This viaduct, in connection with the second road over the pass the engineers agree, will relieve this congestion for years to come.

Valuation of building permits issued for the Lankershim district compiled from city building inspector's office, amount to $83,638 for the month of February.

Last year the February permits amounted to $88,209. The total for January and February last year was $176,406, while this year for the same months it is $224,537.

There were 165 building permits issued locally during February, for a total of $245,789, it is reported by O. Phillips, building inspector. In January there were 173 permits issued, for a total valuation of $278,147.

C. C. Pierce of the Los Angeles building department has been temporarily assigned to Eagle Rock to assist Mr. Phillips in getting his office records up to date, as the latter has been busy on inspections, making it impossible for him to compile his figures for February. Mr. Pierce will remain till the end of this week.

PREHISTORIC TREE

SAN BERNARDINO, March 9.—Drillers at work on a well in Lytle creek south of the San Bernardino city reservoir have encountered the trunk of a tree two feet in diameter at a depth of 65 feet. The great tree, the largest ever found in well drilling operations in San Bernardino valley, is believed to have been carried by some terrific storm during the ages when the valley basin was filled with debris from the mountains. When it was discovered the tree was of such size as to make it impossible for the casing to pass it, a pit was dug and workmen were lowered to chop the log. Many pieces of it were brought to the surface. The well is a short distance from the Riverside-Highland well, where the limb of a tree was encountered at 738 feet.

COTTON CROP

CALEXICO, March 9.—Final figures submitted by cotton ginners in Imperial valley indicate a total of approximately 95,000 bales of cotton ginned this season. Of this total, 70,000 bales were grown in Lower California and the remaining 25,000 bales in Imperial county. The value of the Imperial valley crop is given at $4,000,000 while that in Lower California was worth $8,000,000. The yield on the smaller acreages farmed in this county was declared to have been bigger than on the larger plantations in Mexico.

ROAD EXTENSION

SAN BERNARDINO, March 9.—E. Q. Sullivan, district engineer of the state highway commission appeared before the board of supervisors and requested they secure rights of way for the portion of the Crest road lying between Big Bear valley and Fawnskin preparatory to its improvement by the highway commission. The road is considered the "bottle neck entrance" to the entire highway system in the Big Bear district. It extends along the shore of the lake for three and a half miles and is very heavily travelled. This road was taken over by the highway commission last year. Grading, widening and curve protection are included in the improvement program.

Hecke, chief of the state department of agriculture, said.

AT LA CRESCENTA

LA CRESCENTA, March 9.—Unable to gain entrance to the La Crescenta Pharmacy after breaking the back window, thieves smashed the large plate glass door in front, turning the lock and, according to L. A. Behn, proprietor, carried off his entire stock of cameras, search lights, alarm clocks, belt buckles and fountain pens. The burglars had started on the perfume stock, but were evidently frightened. Sixteen dollars' worth of cigarettes were taken, as was the cash register. A candy bucket was emptied and the contents scattered over the floor. It is thought the bucket was used to carry the stolen articles away in.

There had been two suspicious characters hanging around the neighborhood for the past two days, parking a Ford coupe on the south side of Montrose avenue and standing around the corner, Mr. Behn said. These men had entered the store a number of times, making minor purchases. Members of the Benitto family were returning from downtown about 10:30 o'clock at night, when they saw two young men run from the pharmacy and enter a Ford coupe and drive away.

G. Bowlus, who lives in the rear of his grocery store, next to the pharmacy, reported he heard nothing. The entire loss is placed at a sum in excess of $300. Mr. Behn was unable to insure his stock on account of the unprotected condition of his front door.

FALSE IDEA OF GOD BLAMED FOR FEAR

Author Says Both Lincoln and Mark Twain Lived Forever Scared

By WILLIAM B. CURRY
For International News Service.

CHICAGO, March 9.—Abraham Lincoln and Mark Twain were obsessed by fear all their lives, according to Charles Milton Newcomb, author, lecturer and newspaper columnist, who, by the way, wasn't one bit scared when he addressed 300 members of the Chicago Executive club.

"They had to watch Abraham Lincoln when he was a child to keep him from committing suicide," Newcomb said. "Lincoln was afraid. He wasn't afraid of war or failure or sudden death. He was afraid of God.

"Mark Twain was also afraid of God. Both were afraid of an angry and avenging God.

'Twain absorbed this fear obsession at his mother's knee. Lincoln had it preached into him during his backwoods boyhood by a 'hell-fire' evangelist. Neither was ever free from its shadow as long as he lived.

Carnegie Unafraid

"This fear showed in the fear lines in their faces. Andrew Carnegie, on the other hand, had been taught to believe in a loving and merciful God. There were no fear lines in his face. His was a happy face."

Fear, Newcomb explained, had a biological origin. We owe our lives to the fact that our ancestors were afraid, he said.

"There are two glands that respond to the emotion of fear," Newcomb continued, "the thyroid and adrenal. When danger threatened primitive man it lay with his discretion to do one of two things. He could fight or he could run. The emotion of fear organized him to do either efficiently."

"Men are afraid of five things," Newcomb said at another point in his talk. "They fear mental or bodily harm; loss; group displeasure; failure and soul.

Fear Classified

Explaining his classifications of fear, Newcomb said:

"We live in a machine age and the law of averages works. The machine gets us in about the proportion in which it is entitled to get us.

"Disease and insanity are, within limits, legitimate subjects of fear. The one lays waste and destroys the body, the other the mind. But it is well to remember the horrible example of the man who worried all his life lest he die of hardening of the arteries and finally passed away from softening of the brain.

"The fear of loss includes loss of material possessions, or friends, or loved ones.

"Fear of group displeasure comes in for a little more discussion. What will the neighbors say?

Neighbors' View

"Neighbors of three kinds, of course—the Jeremiahs, the fixers and the dirt washers. The Jeremiahs are perpetually discouraged. The fixers suffer from chronic dissatisfaction. They are the 'some-thing-ought-to-be-done-about-it people.' The dirt washers, of course, are the character destroyers. They keep all the commandments except the one that says: 'Thou shalt not bear false witness.'

"But after all, why worry about what the neighbors will say? They will say it anyway.

"Fear of failure is really fear of self. It is the fear type that keeps one in a rut, that forever keeps its victims from venturing, from achieving.

"Soul fear is the fear that Lincoln and Twain had. It comes invariably from a false idea of God.

"The antidotes of fear are knowledge and faith. We live in a universe governed by law. If we know the law we are not afraid. Man stands in a circle of light. Faith is the thing that enables him to step out of this circle of light into the surrounding darkness."

New Ruling On Seizing Automobiles

SACRAMENTO, March 9.—An automobile used in the transportation of liquor in violation of federal and state dry laws cannot be confiscated by the state unless proof is submitted that the registered or legal owner of the machine knew it was being used for illegal purposes, according to a decision handed down today by the third district court of appeal in reversing a decision of the Humboldt county superior court.

City Council Decides On Vitrified Clay Pipe

cheapest cost. We are satisfied with the decision. The city will not lose much, and will gain, in vitrified clay pipe, a type of sewer pipe that is accepted as standard throughout the world," declared Herman Nelson.

Virgil B. Stone, city manager, declared himself well pleased with the decision of the council.

"While I do not wish to inject myself into any possible controversy over the award of these bids," he said, "I can say as an engineer that vitrified clay pipe is a pipe that Engineers vouch for. It will stand the test of time, and after all, that is what is wanted in sewer pipe."

Lower Than Estimate

The total of low bids on the nine sections of the Glendale sewer system on which contracts were awarded today, $187,006.70, is over $90,000 lower than the estimate of $278,000, furnished by the engineering firm of Burns, McDonnell & Smith, retained by the city of Glendale to supervise construction of the municipal sewer system.

In awarding the contracts, the council felt that the difference of $3,640 between the total of low vitrified clay bids, the total of $183,366.85 for low concrete bids and the total of $183,366.70 for low combination bids, was not enough to warrant award to the lower bidders, it was explained.

PROHIBITION

SACRAMENTO, March 9.—Imposing a fine of $1000 upon George Leiby, 74-year-old resident of Santa Rosa, for sale of 100 gallons of wine to prohibition agents, Federal Judge George M. Teapot Dome Oil Case Is Opened In Wyoming ters and orders of Secretary Fall were identified by Finney and made a matter of court record.

Roberts brought out that Finney's first knowledge of Teapot Dome lease was in February, 1922, after Secretary Fall's return from a trip to New Mexico, at which time, the government charges, Sinclair and Fall negotiated for Teapot.

Finney said he had personally cared for practically every oil lease made by the interior department, except the Teapot and lease for the reserve in Elk Hills, Cal., secured by Edward L. Doheny.

The battle is being staged in the form of an equity case, in which the United States government seeks to recover a 3,000-acre tract of naval oil lands in Wyoming, which, it charges, was leased by former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall to Harry F. Sinclair's Mammoth Oil Co., under circumstances involving bribery and fraud.

LIFE IS FOUND 20,000 FEET ON TIBET

Scientist Describes Place Where Air So Dry Skin Cracks

By CHARLES A. SMITH
For International News Service.

LONDON, March 9.—Remarkable natural life on the mountainous Tibetan plateau, 20,000 feet above sea level—where the atmosphere is so dry and rarified that the skin and nails split and the ordinary decomposition of flesh is prevented—was described to famous naturalists and scientists by Major R. W. C. Hingston at the Royal Geological society here.

Major Hingston was the official naturalist to the 1924 Mount Everest Expedition, which came so near to conquering the world's highest mountain.

Small spiders, which live at 27,000 feet above the sea and which prey upon each other to live, were among the phenomena described by Hingston, who, in referring to them, said that this was the highest altitude at which any life is known to exist. These were found 4,000 feet above the last vegetable growth and far above the Himalayan snow-line.

"We found grasshoppers at 18,000 feet, nearest the farthest limit of vegetable growth," Hingston told his audience. "We frequently saw the magnificent lammergeyer (the Tibetan vulture) soaringg around the mountain at 20,000 feet, while we found bees, moths and butterflies at 21,000 feet, spiders at 22,000 feet and choughs at the immense height of 27,000 feet."

Major Hingston described to his audience how the mammals of the mountain were protected by thicker coats of hair than those of the plain, which was very necessary because of the terrifically high wind which sweeps across Everest at all times. There were herds of goats, with hanging coats of hair, like kilts, around their legs, while at 12,000 feet up there were pigs covered with thick, rusty-colored hair.

Butterflies haunted the passes up to 17,000 feet. Their wings were stiff and rigid and not easily torn, and their bodies were furry. When resting they pressed their wings close against the ground to avoid the wind.

Some of the birds had specially modeled bills for digging into frozen soil for hibernating insects. Burrowing and hibernating were the great means by which many of the animals escaped the extreme cold.

"She is said to resemble her father, I believe." The doctor's tone discouraged further questioning, or possibly Breitman considered that no further enlightenment was needed, for he turned away and called to Flint. "Any more clues?" he said. "I see you've been nosing around."

"One," returned Flint. "What do you make of it?"

He produced a scrap of paper and handed it to Breitman. It was a scorched, half-burned bit—the torn corner of a sheet of writing paper. On it a few words were still visible. "Whoever burned a paper here lately let this fall under the grate among the ashes," Flint explained.

Inspector Breitman held it under the reading lamp and screwed up his small eyes the better to decipher it. This is what he saw:

I, Hannibal Hur
hereby revok
ment
Est

"Hello! this is interesting," he exclaimed. "Looks as if Mr. Hurst had been changing his will, doesn't it? I, Hannibal Hurst, etc., etc., hereby revoke, etc., etc., last will and testament. That's it, isn't it! Then Est—isn't the daughter's name Estelle, doctor? Yes? Well, there we are. He was making a new will, that's sure. The big question is: What was he meaning to do? Was Miss Estelle Hurst going to benefit or was she going to lose? It might make a lot of difference if we knew that. Do you know what the will was which he seems to have been revoking, Mr. Graham?"

"No, I don't, I never saw it," Graham answered, bending over to study the fragment of scorched paper. "My uncle drew it, I suppose—at least our firm had always had charge of Mr. Hurst's affairs."

"How long does Judge Graham expect to be out of town?"

"About a week, I believe. I shall telegraph him to return at once, though. The ladies will need somebody whom they know to act for them."

"Don't they know you?" queried Breitman.

"No; I am only the very unimportant junior partner, you remember. I have never met Miss Hurst, and I had never seen Mrs. Hurst till I met her on the steps this evening."

"Is that so?" commented Breitman in some surprise. "Then you approach the case without prejudice?"

"Absolutely," lied Graham glibly. The less his personal interest in the case was suspected the better, he felt. Otherwise the detectives would hardly take him into their confidence, and he must keep himself posted as far as possible as to the moves that Flint and Breitman, especially Breitman, might make against Evadne. That the inspector looked upon her with suspicion, he could not disguise from himself. No, his part must be that of the family lawyer, interested only in bringing the murderer of his client to justice; active in the service of Evadne only because she was Hanibal Hurst's wife. So far he thought he had played his part correctly. He searched the impassive face of Inspector Breitman for any indication that doubt existed in that mind trained to suspicion, as to the dispassionateness of his attitude. It seemed to him that it must be patent, even to a soulless animal like Breitman, that no man with blood in his veins could be other than fiercely partisan where Evadne Hurst was concerned.

Breitman, however, gave no sign of such perspicacity. Clearly Graham, Keith & Graham were standing surety for him; he was being considered not as a man but as a member of the firm which had the murdered man's interests in hand. Devoutly he thanked heaven for this junior partnership. But Flint now—Flint, he judged, had a keener perception, a subtler mind than Breitman. He was afraid of Flint. But Flint for the moment was paying no attention to him, he was busy pointing out to Dr. Jordan the spot where he had found the scrap of charred paper.

"Awfully clever of you," the doctor was exclaiming admiringly.

"Why, no, not clever a bit; just carelessness on the part of the other fellow," said Flint in his quiet, humorous way. "You see, I was looking for it, and you can always find things you are looking for if they are there to find."

"But why were you looking for it?" asked the doctor, much interested.

"Well, you noticed, of course, that Mr. Hurst must have been shot while in the act of writing; pen was still between his fingers. But whatever it was he was writing was gone. Naturally I looked in the fireplace. Amateurish job, leaving the pen there—or an interrupted one."

"No weapon round anywhere, I suppose, Flint?" questioned Breitman.

"I haven't found any. Amateurish job again! Why the dickens didn't the fellow leave it to suggest suicide! From the position of the wound Mr. Hurst could easily have fired the shot himself. Looks to me like a green hand and an unpremeditated crime." Flint's tone was one of gentle complaint. He liked a neat job and one which taxed his powers. "I wonder whether Mr. Hurst kept a pistol here," he added.

CROSS WORD PUZZLE

COMPILED FOR GLENDALE EVENING NEWS READERS

HOW TO SOLVE THE CROSS WORD PUZZLE

The way to solve the Cross Word Puzzle is to fill in the white squares of the diagram with the words which agree with the accompanying definitions. The definitions are numbered to correspond with the numbers on the diagram. Any word defined in the text under "HORIZONTAL" will begin at its number, shown on the diagram, and will extend all the way across to the first black space to the right of that number. That is, the word must begin in the square that contains its identifying number, and extend as far as the white squares continue uninterruptedly. Any word defined under "VERTICAL" will also begin in the white space that contains its number, but will extend downward as far as the white spaces remain uninterruptedly.

STAGE AND SCREEN

VIEWS AND PREVIEWS—NEWS NOTES FROM STUDIOS

Compiled By Members of The Glendale Evening News Staff

THE GLENDALE

C. Gardner Sullivan has added another hit to his long line of successes in "Cheap Kisses," which opened last night at the Glendale Theatre. The author of "Hail the Woman," "Civilization," "Human Wreckage," and many other well-remembered films, has here scored another triumph.

"Cheap Kisses" thrown on the screen, a veritable panorama of the cocktail-drinking, petting-party fast set that has created so much notoriety of late. Against this background is told a vivid story of young love, with a cast headed by Cullen Landis and Lillian Rich. Mrs. Jack Gardner of Glendale, who plays under the name of Louise Dresser, is seen in an excellent characterization. Vera Reynolds, Jean Hersholt and Bessie Eyton are also in the cast.

Another exceptional attraction now at the Glendale Theatre is a big Orpheum act, conceived and staged by Californians, at a cost of $15,000. In this act are some of the best dancers of the Southwest, including Guy Alden, a pupil of Kosloff and the only deaf and dumb dancer in the world.

Others in this beautiful native dancing act are Sylvia Lor, Gladys Dalzell, Janice Sprague, all Kosloff pupils, and little Fyodor, 7-year-old star pupil of the Belcher school. The act, one of the most lavish ever scheduled to go out over the Orpheum circuit, is seen at the Glendale Theatre for the first time on any stage.

DOBINSON PLAYERS

"Barnum Was Right" is the sincere belief of the Dobinson Players, who are going to entertain Glendalians and other southland people with the riotously funny comedy again this week at the playhouse at the Tuesday Afternoon club. So great has been the demand for seats for the play that the management was compelled to postpone the showing of "The Ruined Lady" until next Monday.

"Barnum Was Right" goes to prove that "there is one born every minute" and is one of the funniest comedies ever seen on the American stage. Critics agree that the Dobinson Players are putting on one of the best performances of the play ever given. With Fred J. Butler as director, and all the favorites appearing in the cast, another successful week is anticipated.

THE GATEWAY

"The Tenth Woman" is the name of the photoplay showing at the Gateway theatre today and Tuesday. It is another brilliant picture from the celebrated American novel by Harriet Comstock. The trend of the story is about a woman who is very mysterious. June Marlowe and Beverly Bayne are starred.

The Wednesday's bill for the Gateway is "The Bandolera" and a well selected bill of vaudeville.

THE T. D. & L.

Von Stroheim's "Greed" continues at the T. D. & L. Theatre.

Free Methodists of Vancouver, B. C., will build a church seating 3500 people and costing $150,000.

UNCLE WIGGILY

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TALL HAT

"Dou you like chocolate cake, Uncle Wiggily?" called Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy one morning, as she hurried about in the kitchen of the hollow stump bungalow, giving the breakfast dishes their bath.

"Do I like chocolate cake?" cried the bunny rabbit gentleman, with a funny twinkle of his pink nose. "Well, I guess you can pretty nearly guess I like chocolate cake, Nurse Jane. I'll have a large slice, if you please!"

Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy laughed so hard that the dishes rattled in the sink. Uncle Wiggily wanted to know what was so funny, and Nurse Jane answered:

"I haven't any chocolate cake to give you now. But if you will hop over to the coop of Mrs. Cluck Cluck, the hen lady, and get me a dozen eggs, I'll soon make a cake for you."

"That's easy!" said the bunny, and out of the bungalow he hopped, going as fast as he could, for he was anxious to get back with the eggs so Nurse Jane could make the chocolate cake. Mr. Longears was just passing the kennel house of Mrs. Bow Wow, the lady dog, when she ran out and called to him:

"Stop! Stop! Wait a minute, Uncle Wiggily!"

"Sorry, but I haven't a moment, Mrs. Bow Wow," he called back. "I'm in a hurry to go to Mrs. Cluck Cluck's to get eggs for a chocolate cake."

"This won't take you a moment," said the lady dog. "I only want to send back to Nurse Jane some balls of knitting yarn she let me take. Here, put the balls in your pocket." From where she stood on the steps she tossed the balls to the bunny rabbit.

Uncle Wiggily stuffed the yarn into his left overcoat pocket and hopped on, thinking how good the chocolate cake would taste when Nurse Jane had made it. He was passing the home of Aunt Lettie, the lady goat, when she bleated to him:

"Wait a minute, Uncle Wiggily, wait a minute."

"I haven't a minute to spare," cried the bunny. "I must hurry to Mrs. Cluck Cluck's to get some eggs for a chocolate cake."

"This won't take half a minute," bleated Aunt Lettie. "Here is a tablecloth I borrowed from Nurse Jane last week when I had company. Fold it up, put it in your overcoat pocket and take it to her. Tell her I am much obliged."

Aunt Lettie tossed the tablecloth to the bunny, who wadded it up and stuffed it in his right overcoat pocket. Then he hopped on until he reached the coop of the hen lady.

"Certainly I can let you have a dozen eggs," she cackled. "Here, put them in your left overcoat pocket."

"That pocket is filled with balls of yarn," said Mr. Longears.

"Then put the eggs in your right pocket," suggested Mrs. Cluck.

"I have a tablecloth in there," said the bunny. "But I can put the eggs in my tall silk hat," which he did, afterward putting the hat on his head.

"Be careful when you take your hat off," warned the lady hen, as the bunny started to hop back to his bungalow.

"I will," he promised. He was going along, with his head held very high, when, all of a sudden, out of the bushes popped the Bob Cat and his wife.

"Oh, here's Uncle Wiggily," meowed Mrs. Bob Cat. "You hold him, my dear, while I nibble his ears.," she said to the other Bob Cat.

"All right," growled Mr. Bob Cat. He sprang at Uncle Wiggily.

Now the bunny was very polite, and always took his hat off in the presence of animal ladies, no matter whether they were Bob Cats or not. So now the bunny quickly took off his tall, silk hat to make a polite bow to Mrs. Bob Cat. And, as he did so, out rolled the dozen of eggs.

"Smash!" went the eggs on the nose of Mr. Bob Cat, before the bad chap could grab the bunny.

"Oh, yowel, towel, rowel!" howled the Bob Cat, his eyes, nose and mouth full of the whites and yellows of eggs. "Oh, I can't see! My eyes are stuck shut!" Then Mrs. Bob Cat had to lead him, and neither of them had time to catch Uncle Wiggily.

The bunny quickly hopped to his bungalow, emptied his overcoat pockets and then went back to Mrs. Cluck Cluck's, where he got more eggs and Nurse Jane made a fine chocolate cake.

So everything happened for the best, and if the parlor rug doesn't curl up and go to sleep under the ice box, when the radio bug wants to dance on it, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's piano lamp.

DIPHTHERIA AND ANTITOXIN

The story of the diphtheria epidemic in Nome and the delivery of antitoxin by the dog teams, in the deathly cold and over the treacherous snow, no doubt has stimulated your interest in antitoxin.

A few papers back I told you how antitoxin was manufactured. In today's and tomorrow's papers I want to tell you a little more of the antitoxin and something of the Schick test and the toxin-antitoxin—all concerned with diphtheria, so that you will understand these terms and not confuse them. First, let me tell you a little something about diphtheria.

Diphtheria, a very serious disease, oftentimes fatal, is caused by a germ (named after its discoverers), the Koch-Weeks bacillus. When this germ settles on the throat of a susceptible victim, it immediately begins to multiply. (Germs reproduce themselves by dividing every 20 minutes). In a short time there are enough present and enough reaction in the mucous membrane so that a greyish-white patch can be seen.

The germs remain located on this membrane. It is not thought that they themselves get into the blood, but their poisons do; and it is to the poisons that circulate in the blood and attach themselves to the body cells that the serious and often fatal effects are mostly due. Sometimes the membrane extends into the windpipe and what is known as laryngial diphtheria develops. This may cause death by strangulation, unless an artificial tube is inserted to breathe through.

If the child (or adult) recovers from diphtheria, it is because his body has manufactured an antitoxin, which neutralizes the poison (toxin). Instead of waiting for the child's body cells to manufacture this antitoxin and running the risk of death before sufficient can be manufactured, we inject an antitoxin manufactured by the body cells of healthy young horses and immediately the poisons in the child's body begin to be neutralized.

The degree with which the poisons are neutralized depends largely upon the time at which the antitoxin is given. If it is given before the toxin has had time to make a firm combination with the cells and poison them thoroughly, there are practically no deaths.

In a series of 2500 cases of diphtheria reported by the New York Hospital for Contagious Diseases, it was found that when the antitoxin was given on the first day of diphtheria, only about 2 per cent died; the second day, about 7 per cent; the third day, over 17 per cent; the fourth day, about 23 per cent; the sixth day, about 38 per cent died. This shows the importance of administering the antitoxin early in the disease.

Antitoxin is, with extremely rare exceptions, harmless, and when deaths do occur after it is given, they are due to the diphtheria and not the antitoxin. On investigation it is found that the patients had received the antitoxin as a last resort when it was too late to overcome the poison.

The antitoxin is so harmless that physicians give it in cases of suspicious looking sore throats with membranes, before a laboratory test is taken to determine whether it is diphtheria or not, because if it is diphtheria, much valuable time has been saved, and if it is not diphtheria no harm has come from the antitoxin.

Diphtheria is known as a "children's disease" because nearly 90 per cent of adults are immune to it. Tomorrow we will talk on that phase of the subject.

Tomorrow—You May Be Immune to Diphtheria

"Yonkers Boiled Stuffed Peppers: (Contributed by 'A Reader'). Chop two cloves of garlic finely with one peeled onion, and add one tablespoon of salt and one-half teaspoon of black pepper. Put this into a bowl with one pound of fresh, lean pork which your butcher has put through his meat grinder, and mix well. Fill six large, washed, green sweet peppers with this mixture, after cutting a small cup from the tops of the peppers. Put the top-caps back tightly, then gently place the stuffed peppers in one quart of hot canned tomatoes, strained, and let simmer one hour. Remove the cooked peppers gently, and thicken the remaining tomato juice with one tablespoon of flour, which has been rubbed into one tablespoon of melted butter; cook until smooth, then add a little sugar and salt to this sauce before serving it with the hot peppers. 'Mrs. S. M.' of your columns, who wrote in recently, might try this recipe with mashed potatoes, pie and coffee. The combination makes a delicious lunch or supper."

Hot Yeast Rolls: (By request of "Billy Bi"). Dissolve one cake of compressed yeast in one-fourth cup of tepid sweet milk; add to it one and three-fourths cups of extra, tepid milk, two tablespoons of butter, two tablespoons of sugar, one teaspoon of salt, and two well-beaten eggs. Stir in two cups of ordinary bread flour and let rise till spongy (about one hour), then stir in four more cups of flour, turn the mixture out onto a slightly floured bread board and kneed ten minutes, return it to the bowl, and let it rise for three hours, or till double in bulk. Once more turn it out onto the board, shape it into finger rolls, place these in a greased baking pan and let rise again (this time only about forty minutes), and bake for about thirty minutes in a hot oven.

Pineapple Salad: Cut three slices of Hawaiian sliced pineapple in small dice, and mix these with two sliced bananas. Pile on crisp lettuce and serve with French dressing.

Chats On Beauty

By EDNA KENT FORBES

DRY SHAMPOO POWDER

If for any reason you cannot shampoo the hair and it is too oily to look nice, there are half a dozen useful dodges that you should know about to make it fluffy.

One is to make up some dry shampoo powder. Now it is possible to take corn starch, soak it in strong coffee or strong tea (as strong as you can make it) then pour off the liquid when the powder settles, and let the rest dry. It can be sifted through cheese cloth and will come out a fine, somewhat tinted powder, which can be sprinkled through the hair and which will not leave it white and dusty afterward as plain white powder does.

But the shampoo powder can never be made as dark as some brunette hair, though it is a great improvement over the ordinary dry powder sold in the shops. It is also possible to use powdered orris, which does not cling to the hair like the ordinary varieties of powder.

And it is even better, I think, to buy corn meal, sifting off the very fine powder by shaking it in a bag so the dust settles, and then using the coarse part to rub through the hair. This brushes off so easily that I prefer it to any other method.

It is possible also to make a mixture of bay rum and water, or toilet water and plain water, enough to soak a wad of cotton, which can be rubbed through the hair, cleansing and taking off the oiliness. The alcohol will make the hair dry quickly so you cannot catch cold, and it will not bring on premature gray hairs unless used too often.

Another idea is to tie back all the hair except a little around the edges, and to wash that with soap and water and a cloth, rinse the same way and dry. This part that shows will be fluffy and will make the whole head of hair seem fluffy, and you cannot catch cold from so little water.

Social Worker: Ringworm is one of the parasitic diseases of the scalp which may be communicated by use of common property, such as combs and brushes, or even the implements at the barber shop. The parasites work their way down into the skin and attack the hair follicles, so it is possible to become permanently bald through the disease unless it is eradicated quickly.

It is best to have a doctor care for ringworm at once; and when that is not possible, shampoo frequently with an antiseptic soap, and use a purifier such as a sulphur ointment.

RINGSIDE GOSSIP by FAIR PLAY

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, March 9.—The great white way is filled with rumors as to what happened in the star chamber session of the boxing commission.

Everyone knows, of course, that the commissioners are trying to work out a plan to have a heavyweight show in New York this summer. So far as the promotion end is concerned everything is set. Rickard has a hold on the Yankee stadium for a year.

Now the thing to do is to get some big attractions. One of the rumors is that the boxing commission is all torn up over the question as to whether an effort will be made to force Tommy Gibbons to meet Harry Wills, the winner then to meet Dempsey.

Appearances may be all wrong, but Eddie Kane, Gibbons' manager, has not given the impression that he is wildly anxious to stick his man in against the powerful negro.

Maybe he is holding out for a price. There is no reason why he should fear for Tommy against Wills if Harry were held strictly to the rules of boxing—which he was not in the Firpo bout. Anyway, there is big news cooking back of the scenes and announcements may be expected at any time.

BABE RUTH DAY

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 9.—Next Friday will be "Babe Ruth day" in Fort Myers. It will mark the appearance of the King of Swat here in a uniform of the Philadelphia Athletics, when he will take part in the annual practice skirmish between the Philadelphia Nationals and the Philadelphia Americans.

BABE IS INJURED

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 9.—Babe Ruth will probably have an X-ray picture made of his left hand today to determine if the bone in his finger was fractured when he caught a low and hot one while playing first base Saturday.

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925

PASO ROBLES, Calif., March 9.—Bill McKechnie's ivory hunters have rounded up for the Pirates this spring one of the most promising crops of youngsters that the writer has seen in a long time. How any of these kids are going to find a place on the Pittsburgh team is something they can't figure out—but they are out there every day working hard in hope something will turn up.

Perhaps Martinette of Buffalo had the most striking introduction of any of the youngsters to the Pirate crew. The rookies were taking their turn at bat when up walked a broad shouldered chap of decided brunette persuasion, and walloped the ball down past first, narrowly escaping the ear of Niehaus.

"That baby sang," said Chick Frazier, Pittsburgh scout, musingly. Pretty soon Martinette came to bat again. This time he lined one past third that almost got "Pie" Traynor's left ear.

"Another singer", mused Frazier. Martinett went to bat a third time, and nearly amputated Moore's leg with a wicked drive.

"That makes a whole chorus" said Frazier, hot-footing for McKechnie. "Hey, Bill," he called, "If you want to have any team left, better put that Buffalo kid out in the next lot."

Of course Martinette is not expected to do that well all the time. There may be no place for him on the Pittsburgh team. But, as Martinette is more than a passable first baseman, it must give McKechnie a satisfied sort of feeling to have him in reserve.

Joe Brown, of Oklahoma City is the white hope of the camp. He is a pitcher. He threw the ball in practice until he threw his leg out of joint. They put Joe on a trainer's table to take the soreness out of him and he yelled with agony when they touched his legs. McKechnie was clearly puzzled.

"I've seen them with arms so sore they couldn't lift a fork to their mouths, but I've never seen a pitcher before whose pains were in his calves of his biceps," he said.

Brown, with his "calf bawl", however, is one pitcher whom everybody expects to see develop into a real major leaguer. All of the men who have handled him are sure that he will be one of the youngsters who will never go back to Oklahoma City to play ball.

Young Thompson of Omaha looks good. The writer had something to say about him last spring for which he is duly thankful. He made a magnificent start at second in 1924 for Omaha but, as he himself says, "after that I slumped a bit and then I got good again. I'm going to do my best to get in one of the big leagues soon and maybe Pittsburgh will think enough of me to be the one."

There are some California boys here to train too, not because they expect to make the team, but because California boys are flocking to all the camps out here to see what they can do and how baseball is played in the big show.

Last Sunday it was agreed there would be no work. But the agreement didn't go for these boys. They were so interested in baseball that McKechnie found a lot of them out in the back lots mixing it.

DENIES CHAMPION HAS BOUT SIGNED

Kearns Going East To See New York Commission About Big Battle

LOS ANGELES, March 9.—Declaring that Jack Dempsey had accepted no offers for bouts either in California or the east, Jack Kearns, the heavyweight's manager, announced he would leave here today for New York.

He said if the New York commission succeeded in uncovering a promoter for a Dempsey-Wills or Dempsey-Gibbons bout he would be willing to go ahead immediately with the project as far as Dempsey was concerned.

Kearns declared he had received an offer for Dempsey to box an opponent as yet unnamed in Los Angeles early in June. He did not reveal the name of the promoter of the proposed bout.

CUBS WORK HARD TO GET PREPARED

Chicago Players Spend Busy Training Season On Catalina Island

By COPELAND C. BURG
For International News Service.

CATALINA ISLAND, Cal., Mar. 9.—For many blue moons, men hearty and hale, noted for their lustihood and stamina, have trekked the sun-kissed beaches and trails of this once pirate-infested region, but it's hardly likely the leaping tuna at play in the offing just around the corner from Mr. William Wrigley's million dollar cottage here have ever lamped examples of the masculine sex more agile and vigorous than they are watching today as the Chicago Cubs gird up their loins and prepare for the fray.

Even a tuna-eyed view of the thirty-five sturdy, red-necked ball players doing antics on this festive island is pregnant with fair vistas reminiscent of the glory of former Cub days, when such notables as Mordecai Brown carried the high loops of Chicago's north side fans.

"Within a month from today, when we start for the season's opener, I am convinced the Cubs will have rounded into better shape than any club we have had for years," Manager Bill Killifer admitted between tuna bites as he sat fishing today.

Infield Lineup.

Killifer is much impressed with his infield. The Cub infield will be fast throughout the season, he believes. Captain Maranville at short, Freiberg at third, Adams at second, and Grimm at first, is calculated as Killifer's final choice, with Barrett at third, Pittinger at short, Michaels at second and Kerns as first sacker to fall back on.

Charlie Root's pitching arm is going great, and Killifer is rather sweet on Morgan, hurler obtained from Wichita Falls. Percy Lee Jones, former Seattle pitcher; Bush, Jacobs, Blake, Keen and Alexander look fit.

In the grass the Cubs will have Heathcote, Weiss, Miller and Arnold Statz, former Coast leaguer. Gabby Hartnett is now almost in mid-year form and with Hartnett and O'Farrell as catchers, Killifer sees an end to receiving worries.

Track Meet Tomorrow And Wednesday Here

The first track meet of the season to be staged at Broadway field will be held tomorrow afternoon, starting at 3:30 o'clock, when the Glendale Dynamiters and Pasadena clash. Heavyweight members of both track teams will participate. On Wednesday the class B track teams of Glendale, Alhambra and South Pasadena will stage a triangular meet at the Broadway field, starting at 3:30 o'clock.

HURLERS GET BUSY

SHREVEPORT, La., March 9.—Hurling experts occupied the attention of the White Sox officials when the business of spring training was resumed today. Veterans are expected to step into the shoes of the rookies who have been in the limelight this week.

KELLY EXPECTED

SARATOGA, Fla., March 9.—After a rest up over the week-end, and inspired by the presence of "Irish" Meusel, the Giants went out for a real snappy workout today. The only regular holdout, George Kelly, was expected to put in his appearance this week.

To encourage its mine and factory owners, Spain plans to give bonuses to metallurgical industries.

SPORT CHATTER

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 9.—Rome, we have been given to understand, wasn't built between sunrise and sunset, nor was the Johnstown flood the result of defective plumbing. Both were cumulative enterprises. So are the Boston Braves, according to the good word today from Christy Mathewson, a great winner and a good loser, as president and one of the leading stockholders of the Boston National league franchise.

He admitted the Braves to be an outfit with a negligible past and not the veriest suggestion of a present, but the allegation that they are without a future only provoked a tolerant smile.

Mr. Mathewson, it appeared, wishes to be placed on record as denying the allegation and defying the "alligator."

As matters stand, the Boston club figures to witness one of the greatest turn-overs of player units in the modern history of baseball. When the bell rings, there is likely to be a recruit player in every position except shortstop and the batteries, while highly esteemed citizens of other days, such as McInnis, Pedgett, Smith, Stengel and Cunningham, gaze fixedly at the proceedings from the shade of the dugout.

"It is all a case of future reckoning," said Matty. "McInnis might have slowed down a bit, but he is still a fine fielding first baseman. He might be ideal for present purposes, but since we are looking ahead three years, Burrus will be allowed to play the position as long as he shows anything at all. Our idea is to stick the young players in for thirty or sixty days and let them do their worst. They will learn more that way than by sitting on the bench or playing minor league ball and if they make the grade so much the better."

Lucas, a pitcher, looks as though he might make a good second baseman and Dave Bancroft assures me that he plans to give the lad every chance to get by there. The same goes for Marriot at third base and probably Welch in center field, although he hasn't reached us as he wants a slice of the $50,000 purchase price we are alleged to have paid for him.

The Braves, therefore, are continuing what assets they may and letting their liabilities ride with the hearse, working on the theory that a man is innocent until proven guilty, the club decided to look on all recruits as assets until proven otherwise.

Briefly, these assets consist of Maurice Burrus, up from Atlanta, after being turned back by the Athletics several years ago; Bill Marriott, of Mobile, supposed to be ready for immediate action; Fred Lucas, once a recruit pitcher with the Giants and now regarded as a promising second baseman; Jim Welch, the costly young man from Seattle, who is expected to run the regular outfielders right off the reservation; Ed Herbert, recalled after a brief sojourn at Shreveport, and Herb Thomas, Dayton product, who is alleged to have gladdened the eye with a few sparkling performances in Boston late last fall.

Frank Gibson and George O'Neil remain as the regular catchers. The pitchers are what dramatic critics refer to as adequate. They include Jess Barnes, a good one; Joe Genewich, a star in 1923, but a flop last year; Rube Marquard, said to be very fine indeed; Larry Benton, Tim McNamara, John Cooney and Kyle Graham. There are others, but posterity probably will know them not.

MOTORIST HINT

SACRAMENTO, March 9.—With construction work under way on the fifteen-mile section of the Pacific highway between Redding and Dunsmuir, motorists traveling over this route must plan their trip so as to pass the construction span between 10:30 a. m. and 6:30 p. m., it was announced by the California State Automobile association.

Bananas shipped by Guatemala to this country last year were valued at $1,000,000 more than those of 1923.

HOOPER CONCERN ON TIRE HISTORY

East Broadway Specialist On Auto Cushions Tells of Big Advancement

It has taken years to produce the flexible tire carcass that absorbs road shocks far better than the clumsy tires that were quite the thing a few years ago, according to William H. Hooper of William H. Hooper & Co., 222 East Broadway. The buoyant tires of today, standard as well as balloon, are the result of years of research and experimentation by engineers to get a uniform flex.

This cord construction giving uniformity in flexing, according to Hooper, has made necessary the actual rebuilding of machines to spin the cords of the tire fabric. Hooper explains:

Perhaps the importance of uniform flexing can be better understood when one appreciates that the average tire must flex more than five million times in traveling ten thousand miles.

Uniformity Need

"Uniformity of flexing is due to the construction of the tire and to uniformity of cord construction. This means that each cotton cord in the tire must be just like its neighbor. The slightest non-uniformity in this cord structure creates a friction point. This friction point if flexed millions of times, or even less, causes the tire to wear more quickly at this point. This in time produces a weakened spot which may not withstand strains that can be borne by the rest of the carcass.

"Unless the fabrication of a tire is such that each individual cord bears its proportionate part of the stress and strains, some one cord or group of cords will receive a disproportionate strain and hence develop a weak point. All parts of the tire must flex in harmony and uniformity. In other words, non-uniform cords produce defective tires."

FIREMEN TO HEAR DR. BROWN SPEAK

Local Physician To Give Employees Health Lecture Tonight

There will be a joint gathering of off-duty members of the fire and police departments tonight at 8 o'clock, at Fire Station No. 1, at which time Dr. Eugene Brown will deliver his lecture "A Fool—and a Fire."

Dr. Brown and his wife, Dr. Clara Brown, who are known as "The Browns of Brand and Broadway," express themselves as anxious to pass along the blessings of rejuvenation and rehabilitation which has featured their remarkable "come-back" from the brink of the grave. To a representative of The Evening News, Dr. Brown said: "I wish to congratulate The Evening News for its success in bringing "Radio Land" to our fire-fighters and now please broadcast this invitation to the members of both departments, and say to those who will be absent upon duty at the time, that any member of the fire or police departments who may need my services for himself or family will be given a half rate.

Debt to Firemen

"We feel that we owe much to these men who risk life and limb to protect us and our property, and it will be a great pleasure to be of service to them. Much of that which we have learned through years of suffering, expense, study and practice, and which brought back to us our youthful health and vigor, will be given to the public in our free lectures.

"What we need today—even more than 'cures'—is the knowledge to preserve that measure of health now in our possession. It is largely from this angle that I shall lecture before the various organizations now arranging for lecture dates.

"My next lecture—"Two Who Came Back"—will be under the auspices of the women's auxiliary of the Congregational church Thursday noon, March 12.

CHURCH ORDER FIGHTS BILL IN SENATE

Elder W. F. Martin, Glendale, At Capitol to Oppose Sunday Closing

By GIL A. COWAN
For Southland News Service
Special to The Evening News.

SACRAMENTO, March 9.—In addition to club women, Protestant church federation, Knights of Columbus and other religious and moral lobbies, the Religious Liberty association has Elder W. F. Martin of the Pacific Union Conference, Seventh-day Adventist church, with headquarters at Glendale, in the capitol this week looking after legislation to which they are opposed.

The Religious Liberty people are fighting Sunday closing legislation, including a bill introduced by Senator Victor J. Canepa, San Francisco, making it illegal for banks to do business on Sunday, and Senator Thomas A. Maloney's bill closing barber shops, hardware stores, butcher shops, clothing stores and leaving open such "necessary" establisnments as skating rinks, livery barns, ice cream establishments and dance halls, according to Mr. Martin.

Seek Amendment

Amendment is sought by the Adventists to Senator Daniel C. Murphy's bill regulating private trade schools and already they have assurances it will be amended to exclude private schools maintained by churches. A public hearing is scheduled.

Elder Martin predicts that the churches will oppose the bill offered by Miss Eleanor Miller, Pasadena assemblywoman, who is quite ill, by the way. The measure provides for dismissal of children during school hours to attend church schools for religious training. The Religious Liberty association believes this would divide the children into cliques and result in much taunting. Opposition of the Jewish faith to this measure also is reported.

JEWEL DISPLAY IS BANDITS' TARGET

Woman With $40,000 Pearl Necklace Is Followed Home, Robbed

NEW YORK, March 9.—The $40,000 in jewels, Mrs. Fay Perkins wore in a Broadway supper club attracted considerable attention early today. She returned home a few minutes before 4:30 o'clock. Her front doorbell rang. When she answered it three masked men with revolvers faced her. A man who had escorted Mrs. Perkins home was bound and gagged. Mrs. Perkins screamed. A robber hit her with his revolver. While she was unconscious she was robbed.

The robbers ripped Mrs. Perkins' jewelry from her person ruthlessly. First went her necklace and diamond bracelets. Then one of the thieves tired to remove her rings with his teeth, because they held fast to her fingers. He bit one of her fingers, causing her to utter the scream that resulted in a gun blow on the head.

provisions and sponsors of the bill claim that it will add to the assessment list considerable intangible wealth now concealed.

Wednesday has been set as the day for a public hearing on reapportionment and the resolutions for ratification of the Colorado river compact will be debated at a public hearing Friday.

A bill calling for an appropriation of $500,000 to complete a survey of the state's water resources, which was given approval by the Senate committee on irrigation, was referred today to the committee of the upper House on finance. Demand Loans As Reserves Are Depleted

NEW YORK, March 9.—Local banks called loans today, estimates running from $30,000,000 to $40,000,000. This calling of loans was the result of depletion in reserves towards the close of last week as shown by the actual condition of the clearing house bank statement. Reserves in that statement exhibit decreased $84,300,000, leaving a deficit of $35,600,000. Call money opened at 3½ per cent, but was advanced to five per cent later in the day.

NEW YORK CLOSING

By W. S. COUSINS
For International News Service

NEW YORK, March 9.—The stock market was reactionary today and prices were generally down. Today's market was as near to the so-called—"traders' market" as has been seen in a months or more. Stocks were churned around without any particular destination in view, specialties were sent forward to new high levels by some of the energetic professionals, but the main body of stocks, including the high-priced industrials, equipments, oils, electrics were sold at concessions of a point or two below Saturday's close and some registered a loss of ten points from last week's high.

The effect of the tightening of the money market was seen as the day advanced. In order to make up the decline in reserves as shown in last week's clearing house statement, the local banks called about $30,000,000 in loans secured by stock exchange collateral today. The call money rates opened at 3½ per cent, they were moved up to 4 and 4½ per cent by noon. In the fourth hour the rate was advanced to 5 per cent. Preparation for federal income tax payments was also a factor in the money market.

Selling pressure was lifted from the industrial leaders in the last hour and some of the stocks showed a tendency to rally. General Electric sold up to 262, for a gain of 2 points over Saturday's close.

Atlantic, Gulf & West Indies recovered 3 points, Wilson & Co. preferred sold up 5 from the low of the day. Rails were inactive, with good buying of the St. Paul stocks a feature. General Motors sold down to 72⅜ and continued as the weak spot in the motor shares list. Maxwell stocks were in better demand. Miami copper collapsed and sold down to 11¾, a loss of 10 points from last week's high and 3 points from Saturday's close. American Safety Razor was a leader in the specialties and reached 56, up 3¼.

Sales today, 1,337,200 shares; bonds, $11,185,000.

BOXER'S CHIVALRY NO HELP TO GIRL

Eighteen-Year-Old Miss Is Jailed Charged With Store Holdup

SALEM, Mass., March 9.—A flash of underworld chivalry failed to save "The Girl In the Purple Mask" from Essex county jail.

Pretty Blanche Dubois, a girl of eighteen summers, was accused of being the woman wearing a purple mask who accompanied three bandits in the holdup of a Haverhill store.

Samuel Linden, the Chelsea pugilist, came forward and said that Miss Dubois was not present at the holdup.

"I borrowed her clothing and wore the purple mask," testified Linden.

Miss Dubois told the same story. But to no avail.

The girl, Linden, Francis Maffi and Bastino Roma were all convicted of the robbery.

"Don't send her away," pleaded Linden. "She is innocent. I borrowed Blanche's clothes because I thought if I dressed up as a girl I could get away with the holdup. I never thought the police would fasten the blame on Blanche. She had nothing to do with the holdup. She's just the girl I love and want to marry."

START SURVEYS FOR PAVING IN ATWATER

Residents Along Streets Waive Rights Of Protest So Improvement Work May Be Finished by June 1

Preliminary surveys for the paving of Glenfeliz boulevard, Glenfeliz place, Valleybrink boulevard and Edenhurst avenue, north of Glendale boulevard in the Atwater Park district, are now being made by the Los Angeles engineering department. Actual paving work will follow shortly.

Petitions, signed by the property owners on these streets, waiving the right of protest, has resulted in the paving work being speeded up by several months, according to word from the street department. All work on these streets will now be finished by June, it was stated.

Trees Are Removed

Street department workers are removing trees along Los Feliz boulevard between the new bridge and the Glendale city limits, preparatory to the repaving and widening of that thoroughfare. Upon completon of the brdge, paving work will start. Suggestions advanced by a number of the property owners along Los Feliz boulevard that the trees be left standing, were found impractical by the city engineer and their removal was ordered.

Masons Meet Tuesday

Atwater Masonic lodge will meet tomorrow night with Unity lodge of Glendale at the Glendale Masonic temple on South Brand boulevard. On Thursday night the lodge will meet with Elysian lodge at Elysian clubhouse, corner of Sunset boulevard and Echo Park avenue. A large attendance of members is desired at both of these meetings, according to Fred H. Chapman, master.

Filling Chuck Holes

Work of filling chuck-holes in the paving where cross streets intersect with Los Feliz boulevard in order to render these streets passable was commenced today by a street department crew. Through the co-operation of Los Feliz business men a request was made that this work be done.

Prepare Temple Plans

A second set of plans for a Masonic temple in the Atwater district have been prepared by Ralph A. Hickman, architect, and are ready for presentation to the lodge members. The new plans call for a lodge room 40 feet by 60 feet in dimensions with two store rooms and a banquet hall on the first floor.

Increase Garage Space

An addition of 20 feet to the front of the structure is being made at the Griffith Park garage, located on Los Feliz boulevard near the river. The new addition will add much needed space to the garage and will bring the front of the building to the line of the sidewalk, Harry E. Clark, proprietor, said.

Called To Ohio

Edward Wurtz, 3830 Glenfeliz boulevard, has been called to Columbus, Ohio, where his father is ill. The elder Mr. Wurtz is said to be in a serious condition.

Plans Barbecue Stand

Nasif Phen has purchased 50 feet of property fronting on Los Feliz boulevard near Glenfeliz boulevard and will shortly erect a small one-story building of fireproof construction. He will operate a barbecue stand. The property was bought from Mrs. A. B. Kronkhite.

ROME, March 9.—Correspondents of foreign newspapers and press organizations met here today and drew up a resolution of protest against personal violence shown newspapermen, and threats that others would be injured. CELEBRATION ON CENTRAL AVENUE subsided somewhat, the bands of the Glendale Elks lodge and the Glendale pyramid of Sciots took their stations on Magnolia and Harvard streets and played for street dancing. This feature was under the direction of James M. Boland, a member of the general committee. Hundreds of couples danced until a late hour while other hundreds, less nimble and less ambitious, looked on from the sidelines.

Association Officials Fix Attendance Saturday Night at 20,000

Hot dogs and coffee, on which the younger generation feasted, having beaten their elders to the stands by several paces when the signal for eats was given, lasted under the barrage of the youngsters for nearly an hour. At the conclusion of this period the dogs gave out and the urchins, who had held the fort in a heroic manner, stomachs full and faces dirty, sought out their parents and were ready to go home. A similar performance took place at the large stand erected for the dispensing of 2,500 ice cream sandwiches by the South Glendale Business Men's association. None of the ice cream went to waste.

Japanese Lanterns

Business houses and residences along the entire length of the avenue presented a beautiful spectacle, ornamented with hundreds of the Japanese lanterns draped in sweeping festoons from the store fronts and from lot to lot. Residents were hosts to friends from Los Angeles and other parts of Glendale throughout the entertainment, serving refreshments on the lawns and within their homes. Business houses in a number of instances gave away free souvenirs while all remained open for the inspection of the public.

A feature of the celebration was a huge double-deck auto bus, of the kind proposed for the Central avenue-Kenneth road scenic line. The bus called at the City Hall early in the evening and was boarded by Mayor Robinson and other members of the council who rode to the speakers' stand at Central avenue and Magnolia street. Here President Smith of the Chamber of Commerce and others were given a ride in the bus. Later passengers were driven up and down Central avenue and the many features of a scenic line such as the one proposed, were explained.

The executive committee of the Central Avenue Improvement association in charge of the street carnival included Charles B. Guthrie, chairman; J. I. Wernette, J. M. Boland, O. M. Newby, W. T. Jefferson, W. F. Tower, M. M. Hartman, Lloyd H. Wilson, O. E. Selzer and J. Herbert Smith.

Boy Scouts Help.

Others who assisted in making the event a great success were members of the South Glendale Business Men's association headed by President L. G. Scovern; Harry Hague, who worked with the committee; Mike Berman and a number of others. A large delegation of North Central avenue residents and property owners joined in the celebration also.

The Glendale drum and bugle corps and a large patrol of Boy Scouts took part. The bugle corps boarded the double-deck bus and rode up and down the avenue during the merrymaking.

Chairman Guthrie stated today that estimates of his committeemen placed the number who witnessed the Central avenue celebration at nearly 20,000 persons. At least half of this number actually joined in the program. Thousands of machine loads of spectators rode from one end of the street to the other during the evening.

Surgeon Retains Body Until Expenses Paid

WARSAW, March 9.—Simon Rosenzweig, a peddler, was held as a pawn for four days after his death in the clinic of a surgeon, who refused to hand over the body to the family before receiving full payment for the operation during which Rosenzweig died.

All efforts to persuade the surgeon to give up the body proved futile, and money had to be collected to release Rosenzweig from his posthumous detention.

ALL-BRITISH BOOT

To promote the wearing of home-produced leather, leather traders of Great Britain introduced an "all-British" boot, but retailers have refused to co-operate because they claim that wearers prefer footwear from other countries.

BANKER APPROVES WOMAN IN OFFICE

Charles A. Rudel Tells Why Miss Kern Would Make Good City Treasurer

Charles A. Rudel, pioneer resident of Glendale and an official of the Pacific Southwest Trust & Savings bank of Los Angeles, with two branches in Glendale, has sent the following self-explanatory communication to The Glendale Evening News:

Editor The Evening News—Your paper has announced that Miss Ruth W. Kern is a candidate for city treasurer, to succeed J. C. Sherer, and I take this opportunity of giving your readers my reason for supporting Miss Kern for this position.

In my official capacity of handling tax matters for one of the largest taxpayers of the state of California, I come in daily contact with the various officials of the cities of Southern California, and therefore know from my practical experience that the duties imposed upon a city treasurer are indeed important, and for the next ten years there is no city official who will transact more business with the property owners of Glendale than the city treasurer. Within another year every lot or parcel of land in Glendale will be affected by a special assessment levied for our new sewer system, and it is the city treasurer to whom all assessments for which street bonds will be issued are payable.

Important Office

In making our selection for this important office, we should not overlook the fact that owing to our complicated laws regulating street improvements, the officers charged with the responsibility of their enforcement should above all be familiar with the law in every detail, honest to a superlative degree, courteous in meeting the general public, efficient in arranging and maintaining a modern and progressive office system, an expert accountant and a tactful correspondent. Without casting the slightest reflection upon any other candidate for this office, I venture to state without fear of contradiction that Miss Kern is the best qualified candidate for city treasurer.

I have known Miss Kern ever since she has been connected with the office of city treasurer, and know of no man or woman holding a similar position in any of the cities with whom I have had any transactions who has a better understanding of the duties connected with the office.

Miss Kern Qualified

Miss Kern has, in addition to all of her qualifications, been fortunate to obtain her experience and training in office during the most active period of the growth and development of the city of Glendale, and the information thus gained will be invaluable to her as city treasurer.

To the taxpayer who may question the propriety of electing a woman to this position, let me state that in many of our most prominent cities a woman has been elected as city treasurer, and in every one of these cities you will find a remarkable improvement in efficiency and service, all of which dispels any argument or prejudice you may have on this subject.

CHARLES A. RUDEL.

Tabernacle Is Jammed To Hear Last Sermon

o'clock another capacity crowd heard Mr. Brown preach his sermon, "Upon This Rock." Sunday afternoon the entire center of the tabernacle was filled with men of Glendale who came to hear Mr. Brown talk on "A More Convenient Season."

Raze Tabernacle

This morning 100 workers dismantled the Union Tabernacle building of its equipment and lowered the structure to the ground. The work went ahead rapidly and by noon nothing remained but the sawdust that had formed the pathways between the rows of seats.

The John Brown party goes to Monrovia where three weeks of evangelistic services will be conducted. One week at Long Beach, resting, will be spent by Mr. Brown and his co-workers before going to Monrovia, however.

Diamond 'War' Is Seen In African Territory

JOHANNESBURG, March 9.—Possibiliy of "war" in the diamond world is seen in a statement issued by the powerful De Beers mining group. Dealing with the position of the diamond industry under the adverse influence of uncontrolled competition from the alluvial diamond fields, the company points out that its present position has been attained by many years of hard work and large investments of capital.

"We have no desire to injure anybody in our struggle for existence," says the statement, "but to guard our interests, we may have to put our foot down decidedly and firmly, self-preservation being the first law of nature."

Station Selected For India-London Airways

LONDON, March 9.—The first intermediate station on the proposed London to India airship route has been decided upon. Its site will be at Ismailia, about midway between Port Said and Cairo. A huge steel tower 200 feet high will be erected on the outskirts to act as a mooring mast for the airships. At its foot will be a hydrogen gas plant, while up the center will run an electric elevator to convey passengers and crew to and from the airships.

From the top of the mast will run a covered passageway into the front of the airships. Adjoining the mast will be searchlights and all the accessories usual to an airship station.
